OHIO STILL RISING.
Cincinnati, March 16—The river today stands at 57.1 and is still rising. A 60 foot stage is expected by tonight. Hundreds of homes here are inundated.
Loss of life in the lower Ohio valley to date is placed at 43 as follows: Chillicothe 2, Mingo Junction 6, Athens 7, Nelsonville 3, Trimble 1, Marietta 2, Sabina 1, Zanesville 4, Circleville 2, Wheeling 11, Parkersburg 4. Chillicothe's loss, mainly to the railroads, is estimated at $1,000,000. The flood is now receding there.

NINE MILLIONS IS FLOOD LOSS NEAR PITTSBURG

Pittsburg, March 16—The flood here is subsiding rapidly today. At 9 o'clock the marks showed 22.2. The maximum was 36.2. Thousands are homeless, hundreds are hungry. The loss will run into the millions. Forty blast furnaces with an output of 19,000 tons a day are out of business.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 16.—Flood losses in Allegheny county are summarized as follows: Loss in output of steel mills, $3,000,000; loss in output of other industries, $2,000,000; loss in wages of employes, $1,837,000; estimated damage to industrial plants, $2,500,000; total, $9,337,000. With the rapid receding of the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio rivers, conditions are fast assuming normal proportions, and the most destructive flood in the history of the city is at an end.

Thirty large blast furnaces in this city are out of commission on account of the flood. It is said here that the suspension will cause a scarcity in iron.
The power from the plants of the Allegheny Light company was turned into the trolley wires Friday night in an effort to maintain streetcar service. As a result Pittsburg was in darkness. It is also stated by the management of the Pittsburg Railway company that it will be at least a week before the streetcar system is in order.

Wheeling Cut Off.
Wheeling, W. Va., March 16.—The crest of the flood passed this city before midnight. The city and surrounding towns on both sides of the river are completely cut off. Every foot of Wheeling island is submerged and 7,000 residents have been driven to upper floors. It is estimated 5,000 homes are flooded, affecting 25,000 people. The property loss will reach $500,000. One fatality is reported. Boatmen are charging extortionate prices for rescuing marooned residents. All newspapers have temporarily suspended and last night the city was in darkness.

Ravages of the Flood.
Parkersburg, W. Va., March 16.—Parkersburg is suffering as she never suffered before from the ravages of a flood. With a stage of 50 feet, the Ohio river continues to rise slowly, and at least another foot is expected. For the first time since the waters came up the city is in darkness. Streetcar traffic is demoralized and trains are not either running into or from the city. Thousands of people are homeless and without food.

IN OHIO TOWNS.
Lives Lost and Property Destroyed.
Eleven Dead in Athens County.
Athens, O., March 16.—The raging waters of the Hocking river have that the waters at the headwaters of the Ohio river are receding. Weather Forecaster Bassler predicts that the flood of last January will be exceeded at many points in the Cincinnati district. Point Pleasant, Portsmouth, Marietta, Parkersburg and other points are now above the flood stage, and will continue to rise. In Cincinnati the local rise has about disappeared, but the rise from above will soon begin to be felt here. According to Bassler this water from above will bring about a 10-foot rise here by Saturday night. Sixty feet is secured, and the chances are that the limit will exceed the January flood when the stage was 65.1.

In Central Ohio.
Columbus, O., March 16.—Flood conditions in central Ohio are much improved. The Muskingum river, which submerged parts of Zanesville and other towns, continues to fall, but there is considerable destitution among those driven from their homes by the flood. At Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton and other points in the Miami valley the danger stage has been passed.

Into the River.
Chillicothe, O., March 16.—A pile driver and engine on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad went through a levee here into the Scioto river. Seven men were on the pile driver and three on the engine. Eight of these were rescued. Brakeman John Long of Olney, Ill., and Thomas Wheeler of this place were drowned. The bodies have not been recovered.

FLOOD DANGER IS NOW PASSED

The waters of the Licking and the streams in this vicinity are now within their banks and all danger has been passed. Much inconvenience is still noticed by the railroads, however. The B. and O. officials here stated Saturday morning that they believed it would be impossible for them to get trains over their own lines beyond Bellaire before Monday or Tuesday as the water in that district is still very high.

Families who were driven out of their homes by the flood are returning and are engaged in repairing the damage done as far as possible.

NEWARK WOMAN KILLED HERSELF

A special to the Advocate from Columbus this afternoon says that Mrs. Ora Karicofe who was sent to the State Hospital for the Insane about a year ago, committed suicide early this morning by hanging herself. Attendants who visited her cell about 5 o'clock this morning found her dead body hanging at the end of a sheet taken from her bed. One end of the improvised rope was fastened in the coarse screen which covers the window to prevent the escape of the prisoners.

Mrs. Karicofe was about 30 years old and leaves a husband, who is a motorman on the interurban lines out of this city. They formerly lived on Monroe avenue, East Newark, until Mrs. Karicofe was sent to the institution.

Mrs. Karicofe is a daughter of Mr. T. M. Norris of Monroe street, East Newark. She was sent to the asylum in July last year and was an inmate of the same institution five or six years ago, having been released as cured. They have no children.
This is the third attempt at suicide of inmates from Licking county who have been sent to Columbus by Judge Brister. Two of the three attempts have been successful, the other suicide being William Miller. Mrs. Mina Renner of this county set fire to her clothing with suicidal intent but failed. She is still in the institution.

general of the United States in President Cleveland's cabinet, was being pushed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1908, as he was to some extent in 1904. The Cleveland Leader has a two column first page article on the subject, in the course of which occurs the following curious statement: "Mr. Harmon is a graduate of Denison university, and has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from that institution. In Central Ohio it has long been a by-word that 'the Denison bunch,' as Democratic graduates of the university in Granville are known in state politics, stick together in boosting sons of their Alma

THAW ATTORNEYS ARE THANKFUL FOR DAY'S RECESS

IT GIVES THEM TIME TO FIX UP
LINE BROKEN DOWN BY MR.
JEROME.

FOUR MORE EXPERTS COMING

Defense on Monday Will Probably Attack Hummel's Reputation--A Bad Week for Thaw.

New York, March 16.—Today's recess is a Godsend to Harry Thaw's hard pressed lawyers, following the terrific blows dealt the defense in the last few days. It gave them time to arrange a new line of battle to prepare to offset the damaging testimony of Hummel and Smith, White's brother-in-law. Thaw's attorneys began their conference today early. Every available moment until the convening of court on Monday will be utilized to prepare the case in rebuttal. The present week has been disastrous for Thaw. On Monday Jerome seemed to be beaten. But getting in Smith's direct evidence of Thaw's rational conversation prior to the shooting and his apparent hunting for White before he killed him, backed by Hummel's cotradiction of Evelyn's story has completely changed matters.
It is expected that the defense on Monday will attack Hummel's reputation showing that his statements are not worthy of credence. Thaw's lawyers believe the jury will believe Evelyn rather than Hummel.
Evelyn, Mrs. Wm Thaw and the Countess of Yarmouth, Thaw's sister, visited the prisoner today. The countess sat with her arm about Evelyn, apparently giving the lie to the estrangement story.
Lawyers for Thaw announced they would have four new alienists Monday to offset the state's experts. (Concluded on Page 1, 2d Section.)

Word was received here this morning notifying relatives of the death of Mrs. Charles Boyd, formerly of this place. Mrs. Boyd and her husband left some time ago for California for Mrs. Boyd's health. No particulars of the death have been received, but it is supposed that lung trouble was the cause. Mr. Boyd will leave for Ohio Monday and the funeral arrangements will be made after the arrival of the body.
The public schools will be closed here Monday and the teachers and pupils will go to Newark to visit the public schools of that place.

Japan is wrestling with the proposition to abolish all titles of nobility with the death of the persons now wearing them. This is a hopeful sign, hopeful in more ways than one. It shows that Japan is not so offended at the United States that she can not see some good in getting out of the title business, and it shows that titles have not any too strong a hold upon people after all. This thing of all standing upon an equality is a notion that is growing in the minds of people.

Railroads are marking up their rates, perhaps on account of the two-cent fare bills and perhaps because in this period of prosperity the traffic will bear it. Among the increases are five cents on bituminous coal to New York, from five to thirty cents on iron and steel products, and advances on grain from the lakes to the seaboard. Other advances are proposed. This may bring on a flood of maximum rate bills in the legislatures and increased activity by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In respectful deference to the wishes of President Roosevelt, the California legislature postponed its anti-Japanese bills for the present session. But they are only postponed. By diplomatic maneuvering the administration has involved the relations with Japan in an entanglement that might have been easily avoided. All that was necessary was to politely but firmly notify Japan that the Federal government has no power to interfere with the school laws or property laws of California or any other state.

GRAND JURY'S NET AT COLUMBUS

GATHERED IN ALL KINDS OF PUBLIC OFFICIALS IN THE CAPITAL CITY.

State Printer Re-indicted on an Old
Charge—Sun Houston on Road
Making—State Affairs.

Columbus, O., March 16.—Until there is some abatement of the excitement over indictments returned by the Franklin county grand jury against nine men holding state and local positions, including one former state official and two who formerly held minor positions in the city government, other matters of statewide interest will promptly step into the background when they appear.

No partisanship can be charged to the action of the grand jury, for of the two men indicted in connection with their conduct as state officials, one is a Democrat and the other a Republican. J. W. Johnson, who was reindicted on the charge formerly brought against him, because the first indictment charging him with attempt by anonymous letters to influence the decision of circuit court in the ouster case begun by his predecessor, Mark Slater, was thrown out of court on technical defects, is one of the three surviving appointees of Governor Patton, and is the Democratic official accused. The present indictment is presumed by the prosecuting attorney to cure the defects found in the first presentment.

Lawson E. Emerson, who resigned recently from the office of clerk of supreme court, was twice elected to that office on the Republican state ticket. Just before his indictment restitution was made to the state of $3,153 found by experts who went over his books to be due from Emerson to the state.

Locally, two members of the Columbus board of public service under indictment are Democrats, Fred J. Immel and Fred Lied; the other member, C. B. Burr, also indicted, is a Republican. Immel and Burr are serving their second terms.

M. F. Bramley of the paving company interested in local contracts on which bribery charges were based formerly was a Republican member of the legislature from Cleveland, and was one of the seven Republicans who voted against the election of Marcus A. Hanna to the senate in 1898.

The political belief of the minor parties involved, as employees of the paving contractors and appointees of the board of public service, is not of material interest. Irwin, the clerk in the justice of peace courts, and Moriarty, clerk of the board of health, indicted on embezzlement charges, are Republicans.

Having pleaded guilty to the charge of bribery, Nelson Cannon, former employee of the paving company, who started the graft scandal by his public statements and became the chief witness before the grand jury, got off with a fine of $650 and costs on five charges of giving bribes. Arthur Beck, assistant city engineer, who resigned, testified before the grand jury, pleaded guilty to five charges against him of accepting bribes and was fined $1,225 and costs. Alfred Shoemaker, a street inspector, pleaded guilty to three charges of accepting bribes and drew a fine of $200 and costs. The fines were paid. One indictment still hangs over each of these three.

All the other men indicted will fight the charges against them in the courts, beginning with H. C. Lang of the paving company, whose trial was set for March 18.

Emerson had some difficulty in securing bail, pending which he spent several nights and days in jail. His troubles began during the winter and were of a domestic character at first. The day he was placed under arrest a letter came for him notifying him that Mrs. Emerson, who left him at the time of their disagreement, had withdrawn her suit for alimony.

What course attorneys for J. W. Johnson will pursue under the new indictment is not known. They attacked the former indictment on several technical defects, and succeeded in having it nulled. Whether they will attack the new indictment or go to trial awaits developments.

It took a long while of discussing good roads when roads were bad to get the good roads movement started.

In Ohio. At the good roads convention just held in Pittsburgh, with over 2,500 delegates from 38 states, Sam Houston, Ohio's commissioner of highways, was one of the speakers. Among other things Mr. Houston said:

"Soon after the organization of Ohio as a state, that is in 1804, a law was passed providing for and appropriating state money to be expended in the opening of certain specifically named state roads. This act stood alone for nearly a century as the only recognition of the fact that the state owed anything to the locality in the matter of public road improvement, except so far as was necessary to legalize by legislative action the proceedings of local road authorities. The movement in the early nineties, the outgrowth of wheel travel, was felt in Ohio and a committee of investigation was named by the general assembly. The matter was dropped with the report of the committee which was adverse, using as expressive of the result of the investigation the words 'Masterly inactivity' as desirable on the part of the state. No further action was taken until 1904, when a committee of the legislature called a good roads convention. The result of that convention was the passage of the acts establishing and providing for the operation of a state highway department."

The term of Harry S. Griffith, the Mt. Gilead editor, as a member of the board of managers of the state penitentiary, will expire March 31. As the board stands no member of it received appointment from Governor Harris.

Republicans here at Columbus claim that as the law forbidding the appointment of Franklin county people to this board refers to "directors" and the legal name of the board of the penitentiary is board of managers, the law no longer applies to the case, and they will try to have a local man named. It was to get R. M. Rownd, since postmaster of this city, off the board that the law was passed.

The story goes that Frank Cook, former secretary of the board, is doing what he can to defeat the reappointment of Griffith, because of differences that arose between them before Cook resigned.

Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, Democratic candidate for secretary of state in 1902, now lecturing for the direct legislation league, spent a week in Columbus addressing meetings in favor of the initiative and referendum. The direct legislation league is making an active canvass in behalf of the pending resolution before the legislature to submit to a vote of the people a constitutional amendment for introducing the initiative and referendum in Ohio. This resolution will come up before the legislature next year.

John W. Jones, who has served 12 years as superintendent of the state institution for the deaf and dumb, was re-elected for a term of four years, beginning in September. His re-election is regarded as a further indication of charges against him that were dismissed after investigation by a committee of the state board of charities.

The merger of Starling and Ohio medical colleges in Columbus under a new charter from the state includes the taking over of the four leading hospitals here, St. Francis, Mt. Carmel, St. Anthony's and the Protestant, under one general management, although they will be operated separately as at present, according to present plans. The new institution will be known as the Starling-Ohio Medical college. Among the 12 incorporators are Dr. W. O. Thompson and Professor W. R. Lazenby of the Ohio State university. Dr. W. O. Thompson was elected president of the college.

A letter was received by the state board of agriculture stating that it will not be possible for President Roosevelt to accept the invitation of the board to attend the State fair "homecoming" day in September. The principal reason assigned is the visit of the president to Ohio for the dedication of the McKinley monument at Canton Sept. 30.

Governor Harris executed a deed to the United States government for a strip of land on the river front in Marietta, dedicated in the early days for religious and educational purposes. The federal government will erect a postoffice building on the site. The governor's action settles a dispute of long standing between the Marietta city authorities and the ministerial trustees of the property.

Since the supreme court decided that the state institutions are not compelled to receive Wilbur Reynolds, 7, a blind, deaf and dumb imbecile, the boy will be sent by the Logan county authorities to his parents, who live in Springfield.

At a meeting of the state board of public works a resolution was adopted fixing the maximum length of bridges over the canals at 50 feet, 40 feet to be allowed for water and 10 feet for towpath. The resolution was offered by B. W. Baldwin, who urged that the action was necessary in view of the millions that are being spent to rejuvenate the waterways of the state.

D. S. Creamer, state fire marshal, was obliged to return from Lansing, Mich., without Ira S. Bryant, who is under indictment in Williams county for arson, the offense dating back to 1877. Governor Warner refused to honor the requisition of Governor Harris for the extradition of Bryant, whose defense was an alibi, and which he seems to have established to the satisfaction of the Michigan governor.

Blood Humors

Persistent Eczema—Druggist Advised Proper Medicine—Another Complete Cure.

It makes no difference how severe or long-seated a case of bad blood, humors, eczema or scrofula may be, Hood's Sarsaparilla cures just the same.

It has the greatest record of any medicine ever made. Has received the largest number of testimonials—40,000 in two years.

It is the one above all others for you to take if you need a thoroughly good medicine for your blood.

Read the following from Mr. C. C. Bailey, a well-known pump manufacturer, of Champaign, Ill.

"When I asked my doctor what that eruption was which came under my right ear, and which had refused to yield to home treatment, he said it was a bad case of eczema and that it would take a long time to cure it. Another doctor said it was about the worst case he ever saw. I followed their advice for 16 months, and still the eruption would not heal. One day I asked the druggist if he had anything he thought would do me good. He said if anything would cure me it was Hood's Sarsaparilla, and advised that I buy three bottles, watch the results, and be governed accordingly. There was such decided improvement at the end of that time that another bottle effected a complete cure." C. C. Bailey, 46 E. University avenue, Champaign, Ill.

A LOT of people condemn the Edison Phonograph without hearing it. They think they know what a Phonograph is. They may, but they do not know what the Edison Phonograph is, because if they had heard it they would long to possess one.

Idea based upon crude and imperfect talking machines must not be applied to the Edison. The Edison Phonograph is the one that was invented by Thomas Alva Edison, and is made in the great laboratory at Orange, where Mr. Edison does his daily work. If there were anything he could do to make the Edison Phonograph better, he would do it. The fact that he is willing to let it go out with his name upon it is proof that he considers it good. If it is good enough for Mr. Edison, it ought to be good enough for you.

TRAINS DELAYED BY ACCIDENT

INTERURBAN CAR JUMPED THE TRACK NEAR STREAM ROAD CROSSING.

None of the Passengers Was Injured by Shipping of the Derail Device.

A bad accident was narrowly averted Saturday morning at the Pine street crossing of the I. C. & E. and steam road tracks when west bound car No. 50, leaving Newark at 7:29 was derailed while on the crossing.

The car, in charge of Motorman Charles Rector and Conductor Otto E. Adams, had 25 passengers on board, none of whom was injured.

The accident is said to have been due to the shipping of the automatic derailing device which is in use at all crossings to prevent collision. The derail is operated by the conductor before the car can pass the crossing, and is located at a point about two car lengths from either side. When the derail switch is opened it is held in place by a small steel nut until the car has passed completely through. In the accident Saturday morning the small steel nut slipped out just after the front trucks had passed over thus throwing the rear trucks completely off the tracks. The car was thrown across the B. & O. and Pennsylvania tracks at an angle of nearly 45 degrees. The wreck car was called from the local barns and after an hour's work succeeded in replacing the car. The east bound car, which is due to leave here at 7:40 was delayed during this time, as was Pennsylvania trains No. 28, 10 and New York express, second section, No. 21. Two B. & O. trains and a yard engine were also inconvenienced by the accident.

At Monroe, La., Flint Williams and Henry Gardner, negroes, were taken from the city jail and hanged in the court house square by a party of about 50 men. Both confessed to having helped a third negro shoot and rob two Italians.

Win. J. Oliver of Knoxville, Tenn., whose bid for the construction of the Panama canal was rejected, was elected vice president of the United States Trust company of Washington, recently organized with a capital of $1,000,000.

A St. Patrick's Day Poem In St. Patrick's Own Language.

A' reir nuair a chuaidh me dhom' leapa.
Last night when I sought for repose.

Cha' raibh go fois no go suain.
It was not to rest or to sleep.

Oir bhí mo chroidh fa bhuairéas.
For my heart was troubled and sore.

Oir fa Eire a bh-fad thar a chuain.
For from Eriu over the deep.

Acht agth le m'osnaidh 's dian duarach
But weary with sighing and longing

A bheith mar a bh-fuair me mo breidh.
To be at my home once again.

Thuit gaile na h-óich ar mo shuilibh.
The shadow of night fell o'er me

Agus bhruadar me bheith aig an tigh.
And I dream I was over the main.

S chonnaic me in'athair 's mo mathair.
I saw my father and my mother.

Dhearbhathra 's companaidhe m'óige.
My brothers and friends of my youth.

S cailin bhoideach na n-donn-shul.
And the brown-eyed maiden so fair.

Da d-tug me mar b'abhaist mo phog.
Who gave me fresh pledge of her truth.

Chonnaic me a'ce ar bharr 's monaidh.
I saw the mist on the mountain.

A' frach faoi mo chosabh to bhliath.
The heath in full bloom as of yore.

S smeoradh 's a phreas bhinn a'fagrair.
Heard the thrush reply in the woodland.

An guineach tursach fa'n traigh.
To the curlew's notes from the shore.

Acht dhuig me le lanacht mo chroidh.
But joy awoke me from slumber.

Bhris doibhneas do labhairt mo shuain.
Bliss chased my bright visions from me.

Agus ta me fathast ar fonndragh.
And an exile, alas! I am still.

O'm dhuthaigh fa-a-bh-fad thar a chuain.
For my home is far over the sea.

St. Patrick's "Wild Deer."

The Saint's Hymn of Thanksgiving
For His Miraculous Deliverance.

CONNECTED with the important event of St. Patrick's preaching at Tara there is still preserved an ancient document, a hymn composed by St. Patrick and first written by St. Evin in the year 625. Leogaire, the son of Niall, the king, hostile to St. Patrick, invited him to Temora—I. e., Temur or Tara—promising to make a public profession of Christianity in the presence of the nobles of his kingdom. Along the road by which the saint was to pass he arranged various schemes for destroying him. St. Patrick, accompanied by eight of his disciples, became aware by Divine revelation of the evil intentions of his enemies, who saw the Christians when they passed them not as men, but as deer. Owing to this circumstance St. Patrick's hymn, composed after his miraculous deliverance, was called "Fith fadha"—I. e., wild deer. The original manuscript of the hymn is in the library of Trinity college, Dublin.

The following is a condensed metrical translation of the hymn from the original Gaelic:

At Tara I today invoke the power of Trinity.
The God of elements, in whom my trust will constant be.
Between me and the pagan powers and demons now I place
The virtue of the birth of Christ, with his baptismal grace.
The virtue of his death and tomb, his rising from the grave,
Ascension and the judgment, where mercy all must crave.
I place between me and the powers that menace me with wrong.

The virtues of the seraphims and all the angel throng.
The hope of life surviving death, of heaven as my reward.
The invocations of the saints, which God will not discard.
The prophets' lore, apostles' work, the doctrine of my creed.
The purity of virgins and every just man's deed
I place between me and those powers in this my hour of need.

I humbly pray that God will guide my footsteps here today:
That every elemental force and quincy may stay
Between me and my cruel foes and guard me on my way.
May all the attributes of God preserve me from all harm.
His word me gird with eloquence, which sinners may alarm.

May all the hosts of God me guard against the demons' wiles.
Against all passions and all thoughts which mind of man defiles.

I place all things that work for good between me and the wrong
Against Druid's enres and woman's wiles and all the pagan throne.

May Christ be ever at my side, within me still abide,
And be with all who speak to me to succor and to guide.
Salvation cometh from the Christ; salvation is the Lord's.
May God's salvation be with us and guard from demon hoards.

MICHAEL O'HARA.

Forward Movement in Ireland.

In Ireland a forward movement all along the line is the order of the day. The government is disposed to pursue a more liberal policy toward Ireland, and the people themselves are taking advantage of every opportunity for general advancement. What may be described as a renaissance in learning and in the arts and crafts is now well under way. Ireland is looking both forward and backward, but the backward glance also makes for culture and consequently for progress. Gaelic is now taught in hundreds of schools, and lace classes are adding to Ireland's prosperity.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLE

READILY RELIEVED BY THIS MIXTURE WHICH ANYONE CAN PREPARE.

No More Kidney Trouble Here if the Home Remedy Becomes Known.

Here is a prescription that anyone can mix at home. Any good prescription pharmacy can supply the ingredients named at little cost, being composed of vegetable extracts. It is harmless and inexpensive. But of all it does its work well, relieving even the worst forms of bladder trouble, frequent urination, backache, kidney complaint, and by its direct action upon the eliminative tissue of the kidneys, makes these most vital organs rid the blood and system of waste matter and uric acid which causes rheumatism.

Here it is: try it if you suffer. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well known local druggist is authority for the statement that one week's use shows good results in nearly every instance, and such symptoms as lame back, frequent desire to urinate, pain in bladder and even chronic rheumatism are generally relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

LODGE NEWS

Odd Fellows.

Olive Branch Lodge No. 34, I. O. O. F. will have three candidates for the initiatory degree. On next Tuesday night all Odd Fellows are cordially invited to meet with us. Hall one door north of postoffice.

American Insurance Union.

Newark Chapter No. 24, A. I. U., met in regular session Thursday evening with a good attendance. The marshal found one candidate knocking at the door. He was invited in and instructed to be good. A committee was appointed to arrange for a dance next month. The sick committee reported Frank Harrold on the sick list, having been injured in a hard wood lumber mill recently. At present he is improving.

The trip to Coshocton Saturday evening, March 9, was one of the most pleasant of the many trips taken by the team. The Coshocton people showed their appreciation by a large turnout to a public meeting held in Forbes hall, immediately following the initiation of a class of 60 by the ladies' degree staff. One of the finest features of the evening's entertainment was an address by Hon. John J. Lentz on fraternal insurance whose thoughts of fraternity easily touch his inspiration and open to him vistas of beautiful thought, which he presents in a masterly way in word painting. Mr. Lentz is the national president of the order of O. C. L. U. The Coshocton chapter lunched the Newark team at the conclusion of the meeting.

Royal Neighbors of America.

On Wednesday evening Daisy camp 2574, Royal Neighbors of America, held its regular meeting, but on account of the weather few were present. Six applications were balloted on for membership. On Wednesday evening March 20, there will be an adjourned meeting at which time business of importance will be transacted and it is the wish that every officer be present for practice of drill. On Wednesday March 27, there will be an initiation of a large class of candidates, at which time it is expected a number of visitors from Circleville will be present.

Modern Woodmen

Cedar Camp No. 4727 Modern Woodmen of America met in regular session on Monday night at their hall with all officers in their stations and 64 members present. Two applications for membership were presented and acted upon, and elected to membership. The escort retired to the ante room and found therein one candidate for beneficial membership and one neighbor to join Cedar Camp by card. The work was conferred upon the stranger found in waiting in a very pleasing manner. After the initiatory ceremony was over Neighbor L. C. Russell on behalf of the Forester team of Cedar Camp asked the consul to turn the meeting of the camp over to the team for a few minutes, which was granted, and Neighbor Russell, in a very touching and pleasing manner on behalf of the Forester team presented Chief Forester E. C. Richardson with a hand some Woodman ring. It was quite a surprise to Neighbor Richardson when after the work was finished, Neighbor B. F. Kent assumed command of the team, regardless of the captain, and having formed a wedge at the consul's station, Neighbor Russell presented the chief with the Woodman ring. At the next regular meeting of the camp there will be several candidates to be instructed in the mysteries of Woodcraft and a good turn out of the members is desired. The Forester team is contemplating giving one of their popular dances during the month of April, and the date will be announced later.

WINE OF CARDUI

THIS AND THAT

The advance agent of Spring visited Newark today and posted a few bills.

The veteran who ran at Bull Run says that those who didn't run are "here yet."

Yes, it's a fact, the stores will close here on St. Patrick's day this year. St. Patrick's day you know, comes tomorrow, Sunday, March 17.

No real economy is shown saving ink, pencils and time, in the omitting crossing of t's and dotting of i's.

The fellow who had just quarreled with his wife remarked as he entered his office this morning that "a house is not well regulated unless there is a scap once in a while." Did the observation console him?

Derwent, the little town east of Cambridge, was reported in Associated Press, Scripps-McRae and Hearst dispatches yesterday as having been swept away by the flood. Like Mark Twain, who after having been reported dead, wired to the newspapers that the statement was "greatly exaggerated." Derwent is to the front today saying she is still on the map but is little the worse for the flood.

Since alleged scientists in Chicago have been talking about weighing souls the enterprising bankers of that city will doubtless be hustling to find out whether animals possess another bi-product that can be canned.

Secretary Taft has declined to permit the Chicago Sanitary Board to direct Lake Michigan water into the drainage canal. There was a protest against the drainage canal draining Lake Michigan.

This is a good time to get off the old car that a hen pecked husband never grows about it.

There is nothing to say about the present weather that the average reader will not have thought of as this goes to press.

A prominent newspaper says the growler must go. It has a record showing that it has been a long time going, and this is the chief cause of the trouble.

The plain meaning of all this railroad agitation is that the public desires better, safer, and if possible, cheaper transportation of passengers and freight.

The crop of Easter hats is now being harvested.

Nature is Newark's friend when a friend is in need. The last freshet was the best and cheapest street cleaner the city has been blessed with since the flood of some weeks previous.

CARPET WEAVING

Now Done at the Mylius Carpet Cleaning Establishment in This City.

Frank Mylius, the well known carpet cleaner, has added a new department to his already complete plant. The new feature is a rug weaving loom which has recently been installed. This loom is used for making over old carpets into attractive rugs. The process is patented and Mr. Mylius controls the patent right for Licking county, and it is the only rug manufactory in Newark.

Mr. Mylius will continue to operate the compressed air carpet cleaning department and says that the only way to clean carpets and clean them right is to place the carpet on a wire screen floor and apply a heavy air pressure which blows the dust from both sides of the carpet. A telephone call is all that is necessary to have these systems explained to the housewife.

American Gout

This peculiar and distinctly American disease becomes more common day after day. Different parts and organs of the body are affected in different individuals, according to their occupations. The man who works with his brain has headache, depressed spirits, sleeplessness, bad memory, or is irritable. The man who works with his muscles feels sluggish, tired, disinclined to work, has dull aches. Both complain of torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, backache, lack of appetite or loss of nerve-tone.

All forms of American gout are due to one cause—uric acid in the blood. Uric acid is a part of the body's waste matter, which is carried by the blood to the kidneys for excretion. But when the blood is weakened, the uric acid accumulates; and the blood fails more and more behind in its task of carrying it away, the usual result being symptoms of American gout.

LIFE PLANT—There is only one way of curing American gout, and that is by giving the blood the necessary help to completely clear out uric acid. For this very purpose Nature has provided LIFE PLANT. LIFE PLANT goes right into the blood, attacks uric acid, and dissolves it so that the blood has no trouble in expelling it. LIFE PLANT quickly restores the system to the energy and power of perfect health. Read what the Hon. John S. Graham, ex-prosecuting attorney of Tuscarawas County, Ohio, says:

"I would not be deprived of the benefit I have received from the use of Life Plant for a thousand dollars. It has taken away the dull, heavy, and different sensation that is the result of close application to the duties of my legal profession, and in its stead given me vigor and elasticity of youth."

If you have any ailment write your symptoms fully to J. J. Mizer, M. D., President of the Life Plant Co., Canton, O., who will send you his personal advice free. Our valuable book "GOOD HEALTH," sent on request free.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DR. ABRAM HULL.

Mr. Eli Hull received a telegram on Friday announcing the death of his brother, Dr. Abram Hull, of Elmwood, Ill. The deceased was an older brother of Eli Hull and the late Kinsey Hull, and was only a few days less than 93 years old at the time of his death. Having been born in Franklin township, this county, April 3, 1814.

Dr. Hull was a prominent physician, Denison university, and after taking a course in medicine, removed to Illinois about the year 1837, where he engaged in the successful practice of his profession in active work until about 30 years old.

The writer hereof formed the acquaintance of the deceased three or four years ago and found him notwithstanding his advanced years, a man of rare intellectual powers and superior intelligence. Besides being thoroughly versed in his profession, he gave a great deal of attention to the social and scientific questions of the day, and his interest in the same continued active and unabated until a very short time before his death.

His brother, Eli Hull, is the only survivor of the eight children of Samuel B. Hull, who was known as one of the earliest and staunchest pioneers of Licking county.

CHAS. SUMNER DAVIS.

Charles Sumner Davis, who formerly lived at Worthington and Dublin is dead of heart disease at Orchard Park, N. Y. A widow and two sons survive him. A sister is postmistress at Gahanna.

INFANT'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Garmendinger of 371 Maple avenue, took place Friday afternoon. Interment took place at Cedar Hill cemetery.

MRS. LAVINA M. CORDRAY.

Mrs. Lavina M. Cordray died February 25, 1907, at her home in Hanover township, Licking county, Ohio. The subject of this loving remembrance was the daughter of Thomas and Keziah Morgan, and was born in Muskingum county, Ohio, July 1, 1839. In her earlier life she was united with the Primitive Baptist church, and her life was a life of consistent Christian womanhood ever ready to extend a helping hand to her neighbors and friends. The writer of this sketch was a neighbor of hers in years gone by.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

member her many benevolent acts to her neighbors in sickness and death; she was always present, doing all she could to alleviate their suffering and sorrow, both by kind words and financial aid. She had that kind disposition which drew and held to her a very large circle of friends. To know her was to respect her. She was a devoted wife, a kind and indulgent mother, and a kind neighbor. No one who applied to her for charity was turned away empty handed.

She was united in marriage to Evan P. Stone, July 27, 1859. Three children were born to that union, Evan P., John N. and Eva L., who preceded her to the spirit land, she having died November 14, 1894.

Evan P. Stone Sr. died in Hanover June 17, 1891. After remaining a widow for several years she was united in marriage to John P. Harsh, a prominent farmer of Perry township, Licking county. A very short period of wedded life followed, as her husband was killed in a railroad accident at Black Hand, October 12, 1899. Again being a widow she removed from the farm to her former home in Hanover and lived alone until December 20, 1906, when she was united in marriage to Calvin Cordray, having been married about 2 months when the ministering angel called her home. Thus ended a life of usefulness. There survive her late husband, Calvin Cordray, two sons, Evan P. Jr., who lives in Hanover, and Dr. J. N. who resides in Newark; also two sisters, Mrs. F. T. Shrake of Painesville, O., and Mrs. Harriet Clements of Ellwood, Ind. And of our dear mother it may be well said:

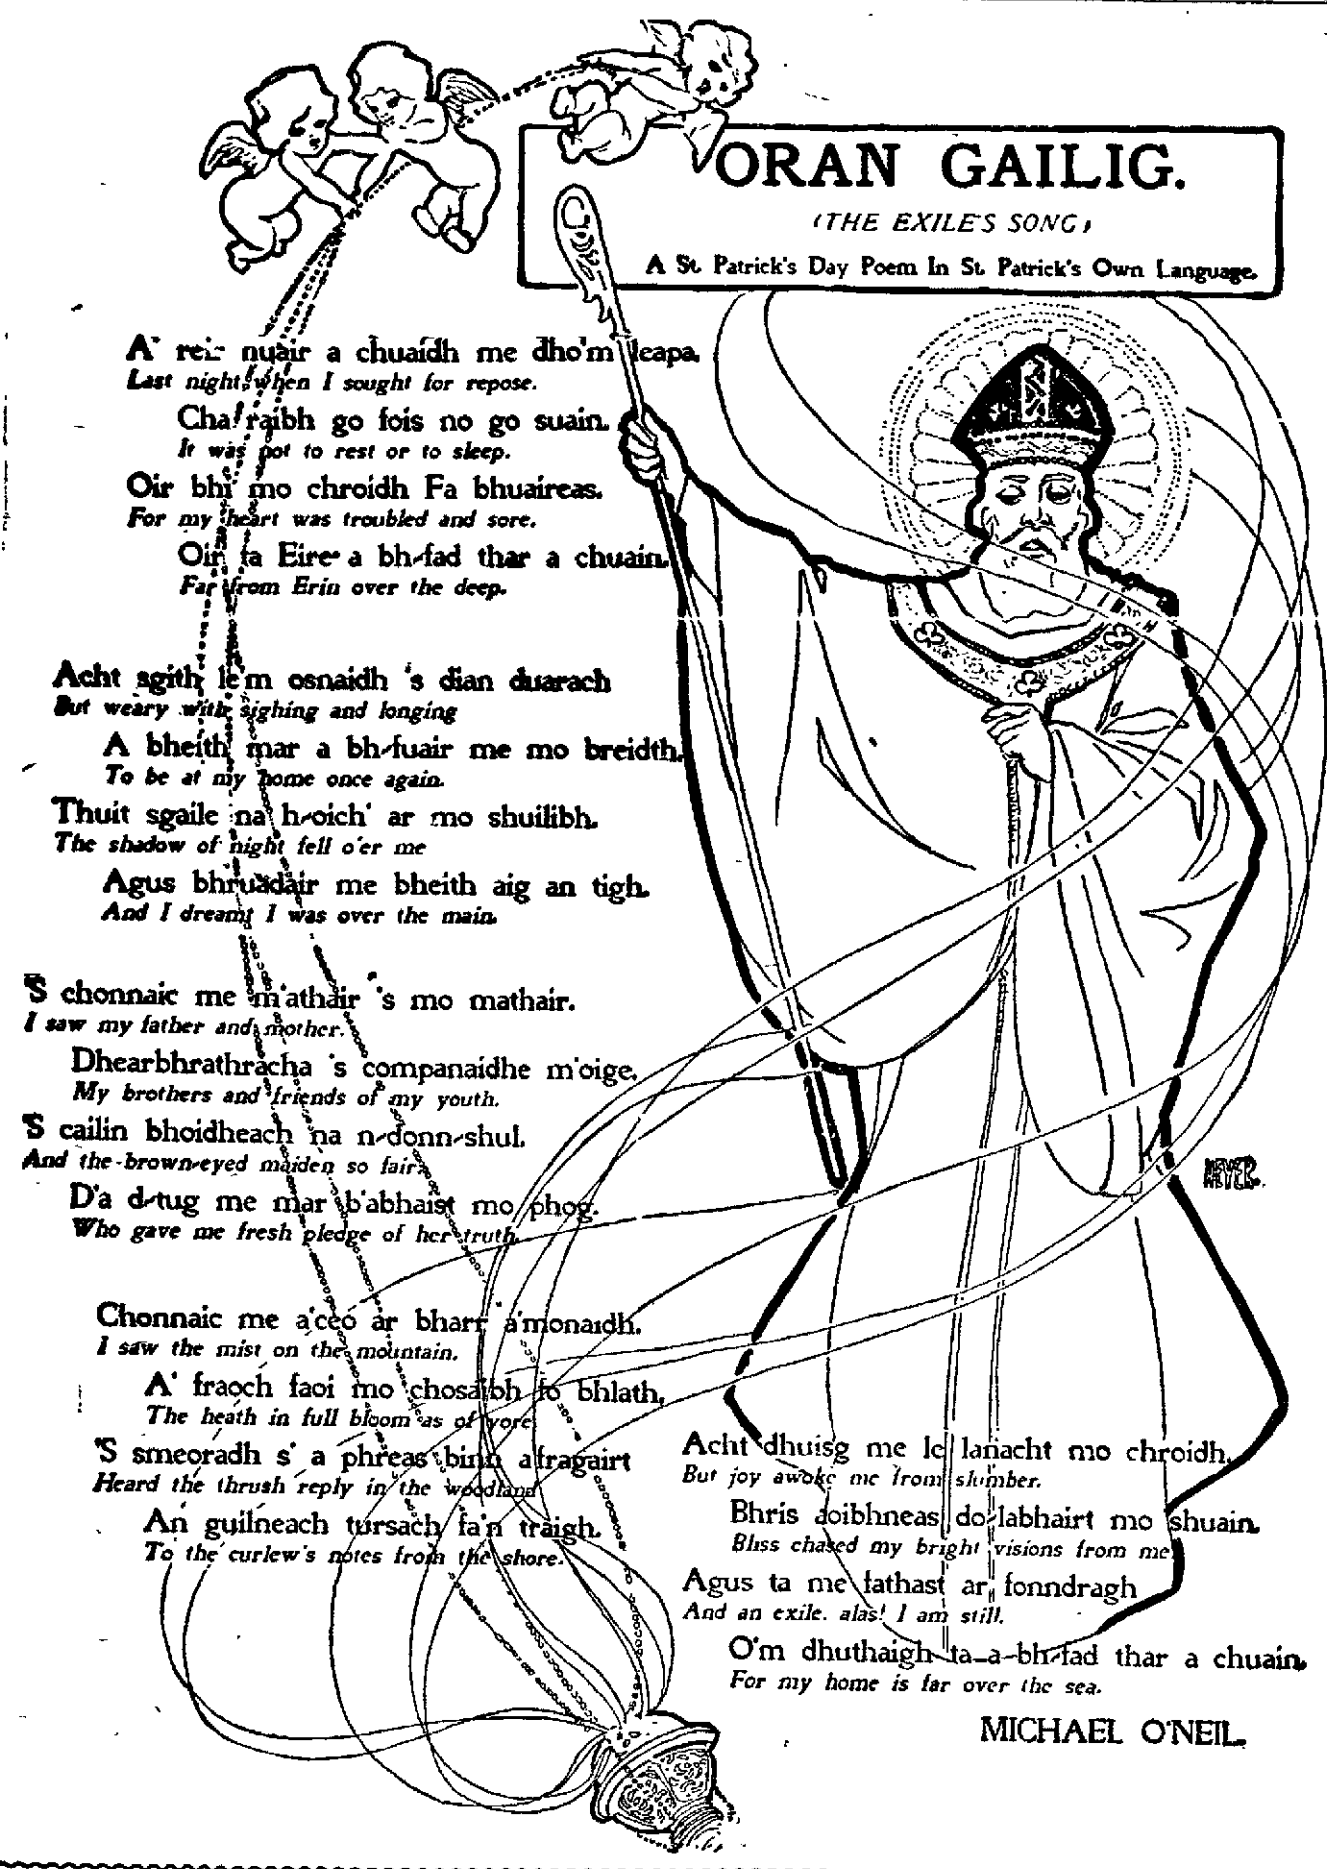

Life's race well run,
Life's work well done,
Life's crown well won;
Now comes rest. By R. E. R.

ST. PATRICK'S

ORAN GAILIG.

(THE EXILE'S SONG)

A St. Patrick's Day Poem In St. Patrick's Own Language.

A' reir nuair a chuaidh me dhoim leapa.
Last night when I sought for repose.
Ch'raibh go fois no go suain.
It was not to rest or to sleep.
Oir bhí mo chroidh fa bhuaircas.
For my heart was troubled and sore.
Oir fa Eire a bhfad thar a chuain.
Far from Erin over the deep.

Acht agth le m'osaidh 's dian d'uarach.
But weary with sighing and longing
A bheith mar a bhfuair me mo breidh.
To be at my home once again.
Thuit sgaile na h-oi'ch' ar mo shuifibh.
The shadow of night fell o'er me
Agus bhrúdair me bheith aig an tigh.
And I dream I was over the main.

'S chonnaic me m'athair 's mo mathair.
I saw my father and mother.
Dhearbhraithreacha 's companaidhe m'oi'ge.
My brothers and friends of my youth.
'S cailin bhoidheach na n-donn-shul.
And the brown-eyed maiden so fair.
Da d'ug me mar b'abhaist mo phog.
Who gave me fresh pledge of her truth.

Chonnaic me a'ceor ar bharr amonaigh.
I saw the mist on the mountain.
A' fraoch faoi mo chosadh fo bhlath.
The heath in full bloom as of yore
'S smeoradh 's a phreas bhí a'fagrairt
Heard the thrush reply in the woodland
An guilneach tursach fa'n traigh.
To the curlew's notes from the shore.

Acht dhuise me le lanacht mo chroidh.
But joy awoke me from slumber.
Bhris doibhneas do labhairt mo shuain.
Bliss chased my bright visions from me
Agus ta me iathast ar fonnragh
And an exile alas! I am still.
Om dhuthaigh na a bhfad thar a chuain.
For my home is far over the sea.

St. Patrick's "Wild Deer."

The Saint's Hymn of Thanksgiving For His Miraculous Deliverance.

CONNECTED with the important event of St. Patrick's preaching at Tara there is still preserved an ancient document, a hymn composed by St. Patrick and first written by St. Evin in the year 625. Leogaire, the son of Niall, the king, hostile to St. Patrick, invited him to Temoria-i. e., Temur or Tara, promising to make a public profession of Christianity in the presence of the nobles of his kingdom. Along the road by which the saint was to pass he arranged various schemes for destroying him. St. Patrick, accompanied by eight of his disciples, became aware by Divine revelation of the evil intentions of his enemies, who saw the Christians when they passed them not as men, but as deer. Owing to this circumstance St. Patrick's hymn, composed after his miraculous deliverance, was called "Fith fiadh"-i. e., wild deer. The original manuscript of the hymn is in the library of Trinity college, Dublin.

The following is a condensed metrical translation of the hymn from the original Gaelic:

At Tara I today invoke the power of Trinity.
The God of elements, in whom my trust will constant be.
Between me and the pagan powers and demons now I place
The virtue of the birth of Christ, with his baptismal grace.
The virtue of his death and tomb, his rising from the grave,
Ascension and the judgment, where mercy all must crave.
I place between me and the powers that menace me with wrong
The virtues of the seraphims and all the angel throng.
The hope of life surviving death, of heaven as my reward,
The invocations of the saints, which God will not discard.
The prophet's free, apostles' work, the doctrines of my creed,
The purity of virgin and every just man's deed.
I place between me and those powers in this my hour of need.
I humbly pray that God will guide my footsteps here today;
That every elemental force and quality may stay
Between me and my cruel foes and guard me on my way;
May all the attributes of God preserve me from all harm;
His word me guide with eloquence, which sinners may alarm;

LODGE NEWS

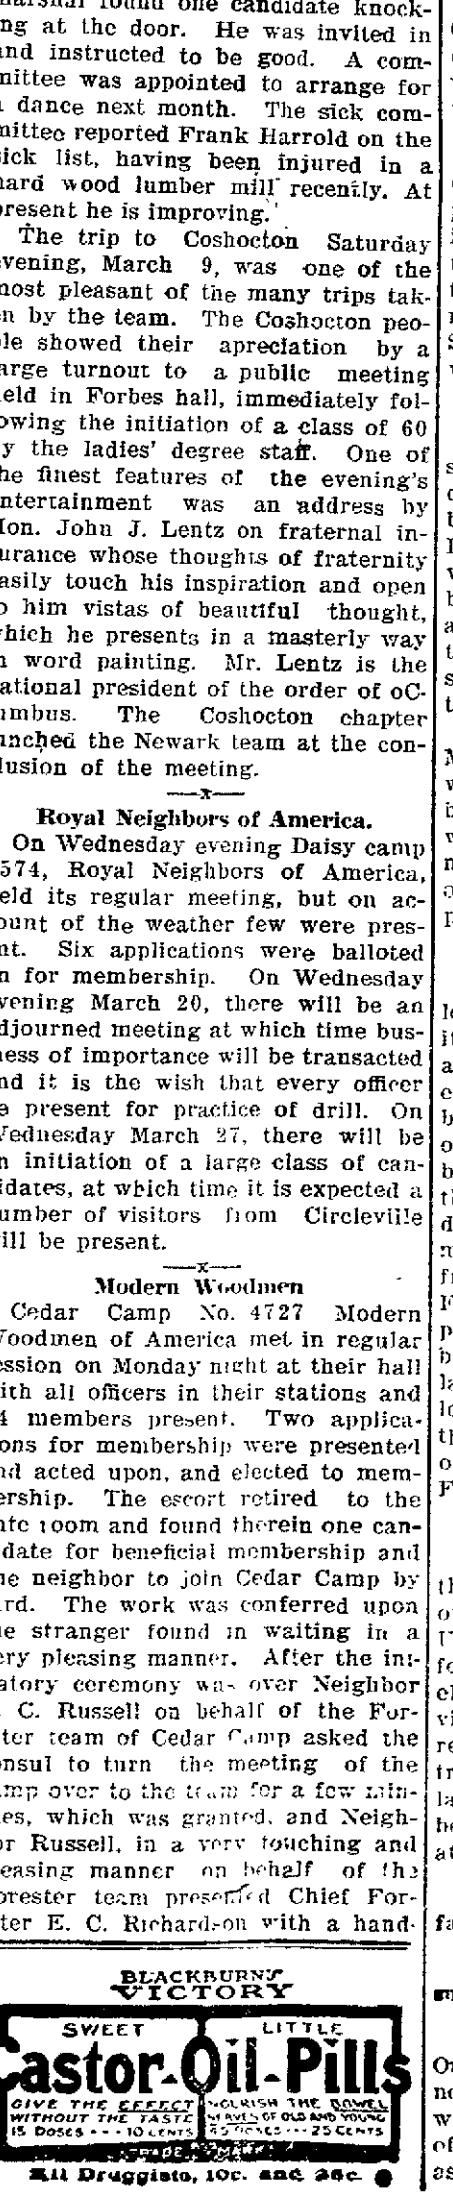

Odd Fellows.
Olive Branch Lodge No. 34, I. O. O. F. will have three candidates for the initiatory degree. On next Tuesday night all Odd Fellows are cordially invited to meet with us. Hall one door north of postoffice.

American Insurance Union.
Newark Chapter No. 24, A. I. U., met in regular session Thursday evening with a good attendance. The marshal found one candidate knocking at the door. He was invited in and instructed to be good. A committee was appointed to arrange for a dance next month. The sick committee reported Frank Harold on the sick list, having been injured in a hard wood lumber mill recently. At present he is improving.

The trip to Coshocton Saturday evening, March 9, was one of the most pleasant of the many trips taken by the team. The Coshocton people showed their appreciation by a large turnout to a public meeting held in Forbes hall, immediately following the initiation of a class of 60 by the ladies' degree staff. One of the finest features of the evening's entertainment was an address by A. Hon. John J. Lentz on fraternal insurance whose thoughts of fraternity easily touch his inspiration and open to him vistas of beautiful thought, which he presents in a masterly way in word painting. Mr. Lentz is the national president of the order of O. C. Umbus. The Coshocton chapter lunched the Newark team at the conclusion of the meeting.

Royal Neighbors of America.
On Wednesday evening Daisy camp 2574, Royal Neighbors of America, held its regular meeting, but on account of the weather few were present. Six applications were balloted on for membership. On Wednesday evening March 20, there will be an adjourned meeting at which time business of importance will be transacted and it is the wish that every officer be present for practice of drill. On Wednesday March 27, there will be an initiation of a large class of candidates, at which time it is expected a number of visitors from Circleville will be present.

Modern Woodmen
Cedar Camp No. 4727 Modern Woodmen of America met in regular session on Monday night at their hall with all officers in their stations and 64 members present. Two applications for membership were presented and acted upon, and elected to membership. The escort retired to the ante room and found therein one candidate for beneficial membership and one neighbor to join Cedar Camp by card. The work was conferred upon the stranger found in waiting in a very pleasing manner. After the initiatory ceremony was over Neighbor L. C. Russell on behalf of the Forester team of Cedar Camp asked the consul to turn the meeting of the camp over to the team for a few minutes, which was granted, and Neighbor Russell, in a very touching and pleasing manner on behalf of the Forester team presented Chief Forester E. C. Richardson with a handsome Woodman ring. It was quite a surprise to Neighbor Richardson when after the work was finished, Neighbor B. F. Kent assumed command of the team, regardless of the captain, and having formed a wedge at the consul's station, Neighbor Russell presented the chief with the Woodman ring. At the next regular meeting of the camp there will be several candidates to be instructed in the mysteries of Woodcraft and a good turn out of the members is desired. The Forester team is contemplating giving one of their popular dances during the month of April, and the date will be announced later.

Neighbor W. C. Fletcher, who lives at 191 Pine street, was reported sick.

Neighbors be at the next meeting of the camp, and bring a neighbor with you. We will show you a good time.

Ben Hur.
One of the most enjoyable occasions in the history of Alpha Court of last Monday night when the members of the court gave a dance in A. I. U. hall on West Main street. There was a large attendance of the members of the court, and their ladies, and the "tripping of the light fantastic" was kept up until a late hour. Splendid music being furnished for the occasion by Dowling's orchestra.

At the next meeting to be held on Monday evening, March 25, the court will be presented with a handsome banner by the Supreme Scribe, who will be present, the court having made the largest gain in membership of any court in the state during the past six months.

Odd Fellows.
Olive Branch Lodge of Odd Fellows, No. 34, expects to confer the Initiatory degree on several candidates at the meeting to be held on Tuesday evening of next week and every member that has the interest and welfare of the lodge at heart is expected to be present and assist in conferring the degree. Of late there has been a disposition on the part of some of the members of the lodge to remain away from the meetings. Every true Odd Fellow knows that one of the principles of the order whereby one may be a good Odd Fellow is to be a regular attendant at the meetings of the lodge. Let there be a full turnout of the members of Olive Branch lodge on next Tuesday night. Every Odd Fellow in the city is invited to attend.

THIS AND THAT

The advance agent of Spring visited Newark today and posted a few bills.

The veteran who ran at Bull Run says that those who didn't run are here yet.

Yes, it's a fact, the stores will close here on St. Patrick's day this year. St. Patrick's day you know, comes tomorrow, Sunday, March 17.

The fellow who had just quarreled with his wife remarked as he entered his office this morning that "a house is not well regulated unless there is a scap once in a while." Did the observation console him?

Derwent, the little town east of Cambridge, was reported in Associated Press, Scripps-McRae and Hearst dispatches yesterday as having been swept away by the flood. Like Mark Twain, who after having been reported dead, wired to the newspapers that the statement was "greatly exaggerated." Derwent is to the front today saying she is still on the map but is little the worse for the flood.

Since alleged scientists in Chicago have been talking about weighing souls the enterprising packers of that city will doubtless be hustling to find out whether animals possess another by-product that can be canned.

Secretary Taft has declined to permit the Chicago Sanitary Board to direct Lake Michigan water into the drainage canal. There was a protest against the drainage canal draining Lake Michigan.

This is a good time to get off the old gas that a hen pecked husband never crows about it.

There is nothing to say about the present weather that the average reader will not have thought of before this goes to press.

A prominent newspaper says the growler must go. It has a record showing that it has been a long time going, and this is the chief cause of the trouble.

The plain meaning of all this railroad agitation is that the public desires better, safer, and if possible, cheaper transportation of passengers and freight.

The crop of Easter hats is now being harvested.

Nature is Newark's friend when a friend is in need. The last freshet was the best and cheapest street cleaner the city has been blessed with since the flood of some weeks previous.

CARPET WEAVING

Now Done at the Mylius Carpet Cleaning Establishment in This City.

Frank Mylius, the well known carpet cleaner, has added a new department to his already complete plant. The new feature is a rug weaving loom which has recently been installed. This loom is used for making over old carpets into attractive rugs. The process is patented and Mr. Mylius controls the patent right for Licking county, and it is the only rug manufactory in Newark.

Mr. Mylius will continue to operate the compressed air carpet cleaning department and says that the only way to clean carpets and clean them right is to place the carpet on a wire screen floor and apply a heavy air pressure which blows the dust from both sides of the carpet. A telephone call is all that is necessary to have these systems explained to the housewife.

SUM OF $1,500 STILL NEEDED BY NEWARK BOARD OF TRADE FOR ITS FACTORY FUND

The Board of Trade meeting in the city hall was poorly attended Friday night, but the men who have had the work of raising the Factory fund reported progress and expressed a determination to push the work through to a successful conclusion.

The small attendance at Friday night's meeting was in part due to the fact that all of the stores were open because of the arrival of the B. & O. pay checks.

The sum of $1500 is still needed to finish the work. Many people who should give and who doubtless will give have not as yet been seen and these people will confer a great favor upon the Board of Trade if they will send in their subscriptions voluntarily.

Mr. L. B. Foster is here from Pittsburg Saturday looking after the work of installing the new steel rolling mill in the West End. About twenty men are now at work at the old steel plant removing the old machinery and preparing for the new. The old 250-horse power engine is being taken out to make way for a new 900-horse power engine. The boilers are here and the new company is preparing to erect a new building near the old one. The new mill will probably not be in operation before June 1.

The Jewett Car company has its plans for building a new erecting shop 97 x 250 feet in size. This will mean the employment of 100 more mechanics.

While the success of these two enterprises is assured, the Board of Trade has guaranteed the fund and it is up to the Board to raise it. This sum of $1,500 is still needed. Will you do your share in the work?

Nothstine was an extra freight conductor and Tuesday at midnight, while switching cars of Martinsdale, Ind., was killed being caught between a moving string and a standing car. He was 24 years old.

DELMAS LOST WARM CONTEST

Jerome Gets Abe Hummel's Testimony Before the Jury.

EVELYN CALLED TO THE STAND

Desperate Effort Made to Introduce Copy of Affidavit Miss Nesbit Is Alleged to Have Signed—Alienists Declare Thaw Sane the Night of the Tragedy.

New York, March 16.—In the Thaw trial District Attorney Jerome secured from Abraham Hummel his complete story as to the affidavit which it is alleged Evelyn Nesbit Thaw made in the lawyer's office in 1903, charging Harry K. Thaw with beating her when she had told him that the statement that Stanford White had drugged and ruined her was not true. When the Hummel testimony was offered Mr. Delmas made a specific objection to each question. Justice Fitzgerald overruled every objection and Mr. Delmas had exceptions noted to rulings. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was called to the stand in the effort of the defense to keep Hummel silent. She declared she had called upon Hummel in his professional capacity and to seek his advice as a lawyer. Stanford White had taken her to the lawyer's office with that end in view. Justice Fitzgerald declared that admitting the proposition of counsel and client, Mrs. Thaw had herself waived the professional privilege by giving her version of what transpired at Hummel's office earlier in the case. The bond of secrecy once removed could not be re-established.

Hummel's testimony in brief was to the effect that Evelyn Nesbit had told him among other things that Thaw had beaten her when she refused to sign papers he had prepared charging Stanford White with her betrayal; that he had dictated a statement to a stenographer in the presence of Miss Nesbit and Stanford White; that he gave the affidavit to two of his clerks to take to Miss Nesbit in the Madison Square Garden tower, and that the next day the paper was returned to him with Evelyn Nesbit's signature attached. He kept the affidavit until Miss Nesbit called and demanded it. He refused to give it to her and turned it over to Stanford White, advising him to have a photographic copy made. Hummel first said he had himself arranged for photographing the affidavit, and that the photographer came to his office. A few moments later, however, he completely contradicted himself on this point, saying he did not make the arrangements; that the photographer did not come to his office, and that he had not so testified. After Stanford White had the copy made he returned the original of the affidavit, the photographic negatives and the prints made from the negatives to Hummel, who swore that he subsequently delivered the original affidavit to Miss Nesbit and has not seen it since.

In the cross-examination, Attorney Delmas brought admissions that the witness had been convicted in December, 1905, on a charge of conspiracy in the same courtroom in which Thaw is being tried. He further admitted that two indictments for subornation of perjury are pending against him, and that one of these indictments charges him with having caused a false affidavit to be made. Mr. Jerome protested against the witness "being dragged through the humiliating details" of his trial, but Justice Fitzgerald declined to interfere. Mr. Delmas asked Hummel if Mr. Jerome is pressing the charges against him. "He certainly is," said the witness.

Abraham Snyder, one of Hummel's clerks, testified that he took the affidavit to the tower and handed it to the woman pointed out to him as Miss Nesbit. She kept the affidavit for five minutes and signed it, saying she had read it through.

At the conclusion of this testimony District Attorney Jerome asked permission to introduce the carbon and photographic copies of the affidavit. Mr. Delmas asked that adjournment be taken before arguing as to the admissibility of the affidavit. He said that after reading the paper over, he might not object to its being offered in evidence. "Coming, as it does," he added, "in such questionable shape, we may deem it best to have the paper go in evidence."

District Attorney Jerome also completed his medical testimony, Attorney Delmas declining to cross-examine any of the experts. Dr. Flint, who testified Thursday, formally was excused, and then five other alienists were called, one after another. Each said he was familiar with the hypothetical questions framed by the evidence and prosecution; basing their opinions on these conclusions, they declared that Thaw on the night he shot and killed Stanford White knew the nature and quality of his act and knew that the act was wrong. One of the experts admitted in cross-examination that doctors often disagree as to the form of a person's insanity. Adjournment was taken until Monday.

DOLGE PROTEST, CIRCULATED IN CARACAS, CAUSES GENERAL STIR IN VENEZUELA.

MR. RUDOLF DOLGE.

Caracas, Venezuela, Mar. 16.—Coming at a time when it is reported that the American government may make an effort to obtain arbitration of the disputes between the Venezuelan government and American corporations whose interests are alleged to have been injured by executive acts of President Castro, the energetic protest to the Venezuelan government by Mr. Dolge, consular agent, on behalf of the Orinoco corporation, which he represents in Caracas, against many recent executive acts damaging to that company created a great stir here. There is much comment as to its effect. A large number of copies of the protest were printed and distributed in Caracas.

MCCUNE WILL IS MADE PUBLIC

WEALTHY COLUMBUS HARDWARE MAN HAD SUBJOINED THREE CODICILS.

John P. McCune is Named as One of Three Executors of the Document.

Columbus, March 16.—The last will and testament of Jonas M. McCune has been admitted to probate and made public. It has three codicils. Under the law, codicils take precedence over the former paper purporting to be the will. After the payment of debts, funeral expenses, etc., it is ordered that the executors shall pay over to Evalena M. McCune, the widow, $2,500 for her support and the support of their minor children, for one year. She is to have the use and occupancy of the homestead known as "Martiskoa Place" for the period of one year. By the terms of the will Mrs. McCune is also to be given one-third of all the personal property at the expiration of twelve months from the probating of the will, these provisions being made in lieu of dower, year's support, and all other rights given to her by law in the estate.

To Catharine Picard, grand-daughter, is given $100. All the balance and remainder of the personal property is bequeathed to Edward L. McCune, John P. McCune, Evalena McCune and Jonas Ferson McCune, share and share alike, in equal proportions, the said portions to be paid to such of the children when they reach the age of 25 years, the executors to retain the portions and shares of the children who have not arrived at the age of 25 at the time of the death of the decedent, in trust, and to be invested as they deem proper and expedient.

All of the real estate is bequeathed and devised to the executors of the will, in trust, for them to take possession of the premises, to lease the same, on such terms as they deem expedient and proper, and after the payment of insurance etc. to give one-third part of said rents and income, to Evalena M. McCune, one full one-third part thereof during her life; and the remaining two-thirds to his children who have attained the age of 25 years, but the shares and portions of those who have not attained the age of 25 years, to be held in trust for them by the executors. When the youngest child arrives at the age of 25 years, the executors to set off to Evalena McCune, her dower interest in the real estate, the remainder of the real estate to be conveyed in equal portions to the children then living, or their representatives.

The executors named in the will are Charles C. Griswold, Edward L. McCune and John P. McCune, who are to act as trustees for the trust created by the will, which was executed February 18, 1902. By the codicils annexed to the will Charles E. Morris is appointed guardian of Jonas F. McCune, and John E. Sater of Evalena McCune, during their minority. Under the second codicil to the will Scott A. Webb is substituted for Charles C. Griswold, to act as one of the executors. Almer C. Armstrong is also substituted as guardian for Jonas F. McCune, in the place of Charles L. Morris. The third codicil is added to the will for the purpose of fixing the rental of certain premises. The last codicil was executed by the decedent January 11, 1907. The estate was valued at $260,000.

CONFERENCE

HELD BY THE COAL OPERATORS WITH INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Attorney General Will be Urged to Institute Proceedings Against the Coal Carrying Roads.

Washington, March 16.—A conference which is likely to have far-reaching results was held here between members of the interstate commerce commission and representatives of the coal operators' and coal miners' organizations in Indiana and southern Illinois. In addition to a complaint which is to be filed formally with the commission, it is probable that the attorney general will be urged to institute prosecutions against officials of the coal-carrying railroads in Indiana and Illinois for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. It is charged that the coal-carrying railroads operating between southern Indiana and Chicago and the northwest will advance about 10 cents per ton the freight rates on coal. This advance, it is asserted, will affect seriously both the operators and miners.

REASONABLE

Is Held Published Rate of the Rock Island Road.

Wichita, Kan., March 16.—In the United States court Judge Pollock instructed the jury to bring in a verdict in favor of the Rock Island Railway company in the cases of the Wichita merchants against the company. The merchants alleged that the company's rate on cotton goods from Galveston to Wichita was discriminatory and unreasonable, as it was more than double the rate to Kansas City. The court held that the published rate of the company is reasonable, and that had the company accepted payment which had been offered by the merchants on the basis of the Kansas City rate, both parties would have been liable to criminal prosecution under the anti-trust law.

Steel Trust's Earnings.

New York, March 16.—The United States Steel corporation, according to its annual report, has passed through the most prosperous year in its history. The gross receipts were $696,756,923, an increase of $111,425,190. After paying out nearly $150,000,000 in wages to 202,457 employees and deducting the cost of manufacture, there was a total profit of $188,332,535 for the year.

MORGAN'S VISIT TO WHITE HOUSE

IN COMPANY WITH OTHER KINGS OF RAILROAD FINANCIAL WORLD.

Has Been Postponed Indefinitely Until the Magnates Can Themselves Agree.

New York, March 16.—Messrs. McCrea, Mellen, Huggitt and Newman, the four railroad presidents for whose visit to the White House J. Pierpont Morgan arranged before his departure for Europe, met here, canvassed the situation, and decided not to go to Washington. It is understood that the four did not feel that they had any proper mandate from the railroad corporations to represent them. They felt that they could not assume the position of a self-constituted commission to formulate or present the views of the hundreds of railroad companies owned by millions of shareholders. They recognized that the railroad managers of the United States are not themselves in perfect accord, and that until some method could be adopted for securing a consensus of opinion, a visit to the president would be idle. At the conclusion of the conference the various presidents left for their homes.

Stand By the Railroads.

New Orleans, March 16.—An appeal to all southerners to stand by the railroads for the sake of the development of the south was made by W. W. Finley, president of the Southern railway, at a business men's banquet tendered him here. He said: "If railroads of the south are to be brought up to the standard required because of expanding business of southern communities, the people of the south must be actuated by the same spirit of co-operation they showed in the early days of railway building, when communities vied with each other in offering inducements for construction. The day for governmental and municipal financial aid for railway lines has passed, and the many millions of dollars that will be required for additional track capacity and terminal facilities must be obtained from private investors."

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Little Rock, Ark., March 16.—East-bound Rock Island passenger train No. 6, the Hot Springs-Memphis flyer, ran into an open switch and was wrecked at Cuneo, a station three miles east of Little Rock. Engineer Killecoyne and Fireman Currier, both of whom lived in Argentina, Ark., were killed, and two mail clerks, an express messenger, the porter and four negro dining car waiters were injured.

Will Air Alton Deal.

Washington, March 16.—Governor Deneen and Attorney General Stead of Illinois, who were invited to Washington by President Roosevelt, will call at the White House this afternoon. While Governor Deneen refuses to discuss the object of his conference with the president, it can be authoritatively stated that the Chicago & Alton deal and other disclosures will be discussed and the situation in general will be gone over. Attorney General Bonaparte and members of the interstate commerce commission will participate in the conference.

BEAT MOTHER; CAUSED DEATH

Hancock, Mich., March 16.—Mrs. Joseph Hamill, 53, was beaten to death by her son Joseph, 23. The deed was committed with a stick of stove-wood, while she was preparing a meal. After pounding her face to a jelly he stabbed her with a carving knife. The noise was heard by a sister who, half dressed and barefooted, ran for help. The slayer is believed to be insane. He has been brooding over imaginary troubles and has acted strangely, saying some one was standing on his "star line." After the killing he lit a cigar and was taking a walk when arrested.

Dun's Trade Review.

New York, March 16.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: Spring trade is making a most satisfactory comparison with the volume at this time last year except in a few sections where the weather is still unfavorable, and mercantile collections improve steadily despite the high money market. Leading industries have orders covering production well into the future, especially cotton factories and steel mills, while the output of pig iron when the month opened was close to the largest on record. High prices in the footwear industry have checked placing of contracts for fall shoes at New England factories.

Shots Fired into Watson's Home.

Augusta, Ga., March 15.—Several shots were fired into the bedroom of J. D. Watson, son of Thomas E. Watson, the former presidential candidate on the Populist ticket, at their home at Thompson, Ga., and while it was later claimed that the investigation indicated a plot against Thomas Watson or his family, no definite clue was obtained.

PRESIDENT OF NICARAGUA.

Washington, March 16.—Complications affecting the United States' relations with Nicaragua have arisen which may cause President Zelaya to abandon his belligerent attitude toward sister republics.

Because of the treatment at the hands of Zelaya, William E. Merry, minister to Nicaragua, Costa Rica and San Salvador, has complained to the State Department. His complaint relates to the way the government at Managua has met his efforts to obtain arbitration of the claims of several Americans. Zelaya, it is declared, rejected Mr. Merry's proposals and a quarrel ensued. Mr. Merry charges the Nicaraguan government with delaying some of his cablegrams.

Reticence is maintained by officials as to the action to be taken, but the incident has given this government an interest in seeking redress from President Zelaya, who may feel obliged to stop his hostile operations against Honduras to make peace with the government.

Concerning the general situation in Central America the representative of one of the republics in Washington said that in his opinion there would be no settlement of the difficulties between Nicaragua and Honduras until the republics became seriously involved in war, when it should be found necessary for the United States or Mexico to end the conflict.

Guatemala contrary to reports does not wish to become involved in the quarrel, and will join Honduras in an alliance. Senor Toledo, Guatemalan Minister here, has received a dispatch from his government saying that Guatemala will "keep hands off."

How Much Could You Get For Your Farm?

You are a farmer. You live near this town. You own land. Let us say that you own more than you need and would like to sell a hundred acres.

How much could you get per acre? Land values have risen lately. But has the value of your land risen as you think it should?

Your land is good land. You think it is worth considerably more than anybody has offered you. Well, let us see.

A man buying farm land naturally prefers to locate near a thriving up to date town. He wants good home markets for his crops. He wants good schools.

Let us say your land is three miles from town. A farm that looks very much like yours is three miles from a town twice as big and twice as prosperous as this town.

If you were going to buy a farm for your own occupancy, wouldn't you pay a whole lot more for land near the town that is twice as large and twice as lively?

Of course you would. It would be good business.

Now, what makes a town big and bustling? Money. Money in circulation. Not in circulation in Chicago, for instance, but right in the town that wants to grow.

How much money have you sent to the big Mail Order houses in the city the past ten years? How much have your neighbors sent? How much have all of you together put out of circulation here at home?

It is probably beyond calculation. If all that money had been spent in your own home town, isn't it reasonable to assume that the town would have grown more than it has grown?

Wouldn't this town be a bigger and better town?

Wouldn't it have more stores to buy your produce?

Wouldn't it have more public improvements to make it more attractive to outsiders who might come here to live, to go into business, or buy your surplus land at a good figure?

TO TRADE AT HOME MEANS TO HELP THE TOWN AND THE NEIGHBORHOOD. TO HELP THE TOWN AND THE NEIGHBORHOOD MEANS TO HELP YOURSELF.

SHOTS FIRED FROM THE TOWN

Eye-Witness Is Called Before the Brownsville Inquisition.

IS A MEXICAN CARPENTER

Absolutely Certain the Negro Soldiers Could Not Have Fired From the Barracks into the Town—Evidence the Best Defense of the Discharged Troops Yet Offered.

Washington, March 16.—The best defense of the negro troops yet given was contained in the evidence offered by an eye-witness to many of the incidents connected with the affray at Brownsville, Tex. The man was called by Senator Foraker and was thoroughly cross-examined by the senate committee on military affairs, which is conducting an investigation of the alleged "shooting up" of Brownsville by members of the Twenty-fifth Infantry. He was Macias G. Tomayo, a Mexican carpenter of Brownsville, who also had the contract for the scavenger work at Fort Brown. Mr. Tomayo testified that when the shooting began he was working in the rear of "B" barracks. The first shot he said came from the alley about half a block from the reservation, between Elizabeth and Washington streets. Another shot was fired almost immediately, and Tomayo quickly extinguished his lantern for fear of being made a target. He said that a fusillade followed, the bullets whistling over the barracks as if fired toward the administration building. He thought there were about 20 shots in all. After the volley he said he drove out between B and D barracks toward the administration building. During the firing Tomayo says he is certain that soldiers did not leave the barracks to enter the town nor enter the barracks from the town, but on cross-examination he would not say that it would have been impossible for soldiers to have hidden along the wall in the rear of the outhouses and woodsheds. He was absolutely certain, though, that soldiers could not have fired from the barracks into the town without his seeing the flashes of the guns and hearing them.

On these points the witness was closely cross-questioned by Senators Warner, Frazier, Foster and Overman, but he could not be shaken. He volunteered the statement that when he was examined by Assistant Attorney General Purdy and Major Blocksam, that Mr. Purdy tried to get him to say that the first shot was fired from within the barracks and that he became scared and jumped on his cart and drove away. He said that Mr. Purdy confused him, and he answered "yes" once when he meant "no," and that Mr. Purdy told him to wait until he got his stenographer. When the question was again put, said Tomayo, he answered that the first shot came from the alley.

When Senator Foraker insisted on bringing out this testimony, Senator Warner protested, but the Ohio senator declared that he purposed to have made a part of the record the character of the examination of witnesses at former investigations where no chance for cross-examination was given.

Another interesting development was a statement by Senator Foraker that he paid the expenses of a man sent south to interview prospective witnesses.

PANIC OVER IN WALL STREET

New York, March 16.—An unusual scene was witnessed on the floor of the stock exchange just after the market had closed. A strange and buoyant, in some respects to the demoralization of the market. Traders gathered around the trading posts and cheered loudly in anticipation of their relief and satisfaction at the change in speculation. The market had been in a panic since Thursday. Congratulations were exchanged all around the room and the members, without exception, had successfully passed through the severe declines of the past few days and hopes were generally expressed that the worst was over.

Bryan's Address. Boston, March 16.—William Jennings Bryan was the guest of the Democratic club committee of Massachusetts, and at a banquet delivered an address in which he touched upon the principles of Democratic doctrine. He declared, "I have been vindicated in recent events. 'I think,' as Mr. Bryan said, 'that if we had a more intelligent and unimpaired majority I would have been elected by an overwhelming majority. We had almost the largest corporation in the country that was ever used in a campaign. No one realizes more than I the value of a nation that has come to Democratic ideas. And I rejoice so that I never lose an opportunity to mark the president for what he has done.'"

The Value and Importance of Ethical Remedies.

Remedies which physicians sanction for family use, as they act most beneficially and are gentle yet prompt in effect, and called ethical, because they are of Known Excellence and Quality and of Known Component Parts.

To gain the full confidence of the well-informed of the world and the approval of the most eminent physicians, it is essential that the component parts be known to and approved by them, and, therefore, the California Fig Syrup Company has published for many years past in its advertisements, and upon every package a full statement thereof. The perfect purity and uniformity of product which they demand in a laxative remedy of an ethical character are assured by the California Fig Syrup Company's original method of manufacture, known to the Company only.

There are other ethical remedies approved by physicians, but the product of the California Fig Syrup Company possesses the advantage over all other family laxatives that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts, without disturbing the natural functions or any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of Syrup of Figs, and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the well-informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs; and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for Syrup of Figs, or by the full name, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, as Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company, and the same heretofore known by the name, Syrup of Figs, which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States, in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

The Shamrock, Erin's Flower.

By MARTIN FITZGERALD.

[Copyright, 1907, by T. E. McGrath.]

ES, everybody knows that the shamrock grows in Ireland, but not everybody knows just what the shamrock really is. Even in Ireland there is much difference of opinion as to the identity of the native emblem. Some hold that the shamrock is one plant, while others argue that it is another. Half a dozen plants contend for the honor. In America there are some patriotic Irishmen who will declare that they know exactly what the shamrock is and can distinguish it at sight, but in Ireland several varieties of trefoils or three leaved plants have entered the lists for recognition as the real shamrock, and no man really knows which is which.

As a matter of fact, any trefoil that comes from Ireland is the shamrock when it gets to the United States. It is a three leaved bit of green from the old sod and therefore eminently fit for use in the wearing of the green. The white clover is said to be the most popular candidate for shamrock distinction, though there is also the red clover, while the yellow clover, the wood sorrel, the bird's foot trefoil and a few others present their claims.

Oh, the shamrock, the green, immortal shamrock. The chosen leaf Of hard and chief. Gid Erin's native shamrock! So sang Tom Moore, the immortal, and the shamrock goes, whether it be clover or wood sorrel. The present word shamrock is the generic name in Irish and Gaelic for all trefoils. In the ancient Gaelic tongue and the succeeding dialects it occurs variously as seamrag, seamros, seamroz, seamroge, shamroge, shamrooke, shamrook, shamroch, shamroote, shamrug, shamroge, seamroge and shambrock. It really means "little clover."

We have, of course, little clovers in the United States, but none of us who are Irish will deign to accept any such designation as a shamrock. In the streets of New York and other cities there are sold on St. Patrick's day three leaved greens purporting to be the true Irish shamrock, but many of them are merely American clover. Any Irishman can detect the fraud at a glance, because the shamrock leaf is smaller than the American clover. When the ship comes in from Erin over many a weary mile It will bear to me a letter from the old green isle; It will bear to me a letter, and it may be moist and wet But 'tis woe in that condition that I most love to get. For the gur-rul I left behind me, while I make my fortune big, She will make me love her better with a shamrock sprig.

So it happens that thousands of Irish folk in America await with longing the arrival of the ship that reaches New York just before St. Patrick's day—the last to leave Ireland in time to reach the United States so that mail can be distributed by the 17th of March—in the fond hope and confident expectation that the vessel may have on board addressed to them a letter containing a sprig of shamrock from the old soil. This shamrock mail is so bulky that sometimes it swamps the facilities of the New York postoffice, and it is estimated that for every sack of such matter sent to New York addresses there are ten sacks addressed elsewhere in the United States.

ST. PATRICK PLANTING THE SHAMROCK. France has the Ivy and England the rose. Everybody knows where the shamrock grows.

It is the universal custom for people in Ireland to send their relatives who have emigrated to America these bits of shamrock, so that the loved ones so far away from the native sod may wear the real green of Erin on St. Patrick's day. Very often the letters reach this country in quite a bedraggled condition. Usually the shamrock is moistened before sealing the envelope in the hope that it may keep fresh and green on the voyage. Sometimes too much wetness leaks through the envelope and smears the address so that it is impossible to decipher it. In that case the letter goes to a certain department, where it is dried out and an attempt is made to read the address. This failing, the poor little shamrock is entombed in the dead letter office at Washington, where it gives what assistance it can in keeping its own grave green.

It is said that there is practically no traffic in the real shamrock in the United States. Such specimens of it as are worn in caps and hats, in button-holes and on bosoms during the anniversary of the patron saint are, as a rule, extracted from the letters sent by the folks at home. No doubt some dealers now and then get in stock some of the real article, but there is so much clover in the United States which the cows do not devour and it is so cheap and attractive that it is an easy matter to pass it off for shamrock, except in the case of the Irish man or woman direct from the old sod, who discovers the deception at once. It is the "dear little plant" itself which these people demand.

There's a dear little plant that grows in our isle; 'Twas St. Patrick himself, sure, who planted it. And the sun on his labor with pleasure did smile. And the tear from his eye oftentimes wet it. It grows through the bog, through the brake, through the mud and the mire. And they call it the dear little shamrock of Ireland.

The legend is a pretty one, and it serves to make patriotic Irishmen feel the old thrill of love of native land when the day of the revered saint comes around. The shamrock undoubtedly is the most famous of all national flowers, though the land where it grows is not now a free nation.

In very ancient times the shamrock was used by the Irish for food, the men believing that it made them strong and swift runners. The flowers and leaves were sometimes ground into a meal, which became a substitute for other foods in time of famine.

There has long been a belief even in pagan countries and among the Druids that snakes will not go near the trefoil, which makes its use as an emblem of St. Patrick still more appropriate. The clover in all ages has been held in high regard as a Divine emblem, which is evidenced by the still existing belief in the four leaf clover, or tetrafoil, as having power to bring luck.

There was a time when English commanders punished Irish soldiers for wearing the shamrock, but that day passed when Queen Victoria ordered the Irish regiments to display the flower as a mark of her appreciation of their bravery in the Boer war.

The King of Norway served as an ordinary apprentice in the Danish navy for nine months.

VALUABLE COW

But She Objects to Milking Process—Purchased by Charles Kochendorfer of Hebron.

Hebron, O., March 16.—Mr. Charles Kochendorfer started early one morning not long ago on a hunt for a "good" cow. While walking on a street in Hebron he was told where he could get just the kind of a cow he wanted. He found the farmer and the cow, and was very much pleased so he bought her at a high figure. When he reached home with his cow he told his good wife he had purchased a "valuable cow," and she was to do the milking. However, when milking time came the cow didn't believe in a woman milking. So Mr. Kochendorfer picked up his three-legged stool, and bucket, sat down beside the cow to milk. Scarcely had he begun milking when Mrs. Cow did not believe in men milking either, so up came her heels, and over went poor Charles, bucket, milk, stool and all. When he saw stars, no more he crawled to his feet and went in the house for his wife to bathe his poor aching head for him. He now has a "valuable cow" for sale.

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama canal. Many are restrained however by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters, who go there without this fear, well knowing they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison too, biliousness, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by F. D. Hall, druggist, 50c.

PARADE SUGGESTED FOR HIGH-POWER RACING RUNABOUTS.

B. L. M. Semi-Racer.

New York, March 16—With the sudden fad for high power runabouts of the semi-racing type, many suggestions have been made for demonstrating to the public the popularity and utility of these machines. It is estimated that since the beginning of the year several hundred of these fast cars have been sold in this city, although not all have been delivered. Of this type is the B. L. M. semi-racer the entire output of which for 1907 have been sold to motor sportsmen.

Gaston Plaintiff, who has sold more than a score of six cylinder Ford semi-racers, has proposed that all the cars of high power roadster type in New York be brought together in a parade through Central Park, and a run to some outlying point some time in March or April. Such a run was held from Chicago last week, when high power runabouts of thirteen different makes were in line.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Newark People Stand the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Newark people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

F. Lisey, commission merchant, of 39 South Fourth street, Newark, O., says:

"I have had no occasion to use any kidney medicine since 1896, and therefore think more than ever of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me eight years ago, and I made a statement for publication at that time recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This statement I will repeat for the benefit of other sufferers from kidney troubles:

"For several years I was distressed and annoyed with pain in the back just over the kidneys, and whenever I stooped or tried to lift anything the trouble became acute. Treatment had failed to bring me relief and at last I laid aside the prescriptions I had been using and went to Crayton's drug store for a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of this remedy proved so effective that my back has been sound ever since I used Doan's Kidney Pills eight years ago. I therefore have no hesitation in recommending them to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. 41

OIL WELL ON A. J. WILSON FARM

NOW PRODUCING TWO BARRELS DAILY BY ITS OWN NATURAL FLOW.

A. H. Shaw Buys McDaniel Farm— Birthday Party—Other News of Utica.

Utica, O., March 16—For the first time in its history, crude oil was teamed through the streets of Utica and loaded into a tank car for shipment. The combination gas and oil well on the A. J. Wilson farm two miles west of town, drilled in two or three years ago, has been doing such stunts of its own accord, without the encouragement of a pump, that the huge tank would no longer hold its product. Hence the shipment. The tank at the well was not built until half an acre of land had been flooded ankle deep. The well is now producing about two barrels per day by its own natural flow. For a long time after its completion a photograph of the well blowing oil was on exhibition at the Herald office, the photo by Don Buxton. The oil producer on the Hamlin Conard farm southwest of town and a mile from the Wilson well has been abandoned as a gas producer, and there has never been any effort to save the oil from it. Neither of these Clinton sand oil producers has ever been shot. The Wilson well is owned by the Logan, and the Conard well by the Central Ohio company.

A. Huber Shaw closed a contract last Friday with H. E. Harris, agent, for the purchase of the McDaniel farm of 196 acres about midway between Utica and Homer. The consideration is $10,000 cash. He is to get possession about April 1, when he retires from the store which he has owned. On account of nearly all the owners of the farm, heirs of William McDaniel, residing in the West, it had been on the market for some time. There had been numerous attempts to purchase parts of it, but the entire tract as it was held was a bigger proposition than most farm hunters cared to assume. Mr. Shaw has always had a hankering to get back to the soil, and with his ambition and a willingness to work for future results he will build the place to be one of the best in the section. He has a nice dwelling under construction on Mill street in Utica, and he expects to make his winter home in the village.

Frank Lahmon, who resides a few miles out of town, celebrated his 49th birthday. His neighbors and friends to the number of seventy surprised him by assembling at his home with the materials for a banquet at the noon hour. The social converse was interspersed with good string music by the Cooksey brothers and Prof. Martin assisted with the piano. A nice rocker was presented Mr. Lahmon by his daughters, and many other presents were given. The dinner was a great feature embracing among other things, 17 of the handsomest looking and most toothsome large cakes that the neighborhood ever exhibited in array.

SILK FROCK FOR STREET WEAR.

The sketch depicts a very stylish little street gown, the design being one that could be followed very easily by the home dressmaker. Dark brown silk was used for the model frock, the trimming consisting of a little hand embroidery, rows of silk-covered buttons and tucked sections of the silk, which were set in across the shoulders, back and front. The little round-ed yoke was of lace, and full of lace were also used inside the cuffs of the short sleeves. The skirt was made with a front panel, trimmed with lustrous, and was tucked about the hips. Two three-inch bias folds were used about the lower part, these folds coming from under the centre front panel.

Johnstown. Important matters to be discussed. Your attendance is earnestly requested by order of the president.

The 225 acre farm belonging to Guy Derthick located two miles south of Johnstown was sold on last Saturday to a colored man from Worthington, Mr. Scott. We have not learned the price paid, but this farm is considered one of the best in Licking county and was held by Mr. Derthick at $75 per acre.

The Dean Ashbrook warehouse and elevator near the grist mill is being pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. Portions of it is already being put to use by Mr. Ashbrook. He expects to have his elevator completed in about two or three weeks.

Miss Marie Willson who has been at Columbus the past few months is now at home.

FIRST TELEGRAPHER AND "PHONOGRAPHIC WRITER."

In a batch of mail that arrived at the Simplified Spelling Board, 1 Madison avenue, New York, recently, were two cards, one from the oldest stenographer, the other from the first telegrapher in the country, in which each of the writers pledged himself to use the simplified forms recommended by the board. The stenographer, Cyrus W. Sears, a retired merchant of Harpster, O., who is 75 years old, wrote:

"I have been an advocate of reformed spelling, sound spelling, for 56 years. Fifty years ago I delivered some lectures on the subject in which I pointed out that it would be only a question of time not only when the phonetic method of spelling, but phonographic writing would be the vogue. I am of the same opinion still—as truth and simplicity are bound to win."

The telegrapher was Orvin S. Wood of 2 West Eighty-eighth street, New York City. He wrote that he was Prof. S. F. B. Morse's first student, in 1844.

GENEALOGY OF BANCROFT FAMILY

Compiled by Mrs. L. Bancroft Fant —Built Upon Church and Court Records.

Mrs. L. Bancroft Fant, of this city compiled the genealogy of the family of Ethan Bancroft, published in the last number of the "Old Northwest Genealogical Society Quarterly."

Ethan Bancroft was a pioneer of Licking county having arrived with the Granville colony from Granville, Mass., during the fall of 1805. The article shows careful research for minute detail and makes a perfectly reliable record for future reference. It is built upon church and court records found in England and New England and old family Bible records for more recent dates. Mrs. Fant is now engaged upon the biographical sketch of Judge Samuel Bancroft, Licking county's first clerk of the court and an associate judge until the office of probate judge was instituted.

NATURAL GAS NEWS BUDGET

THIRTEEN WELLS ARE DRILLED ON THE FARM OWNED BY JACOB BELL.

Lancaster Gets a Gusher—Logan Co. Leases Seven School House Lots. Much Activity

George Futrer has leased his 12 acres east of Granville to the Helsey company.

The Consumers' company, who are drilling a well on the Charles Thompson farm, near Jersey, are down 1200 feet.

It is reported that the Columbus company has made a location on the Richard Severn farm in St. Albans township.

Kinsey & Son started spudding Thursday on the Mary V. Jones farm in McKean township, for the Everett company.

The No. 3 well on the E. L. Jones farm in McKean township, is due to come in the first of the week.

The Everett company drilled in a dry hole on the Watson farm in Liberty township, Tuesday. There was 15 feet of sand and a small showing of gas.

Rig builders are at work putting up a new derrick on the Wash Woolard farm in Harrison township for the Columbus company.

The Edward Powers well in Liberty township, being drilled by the Ohio Fuel company, is due to come in the first of the week.

The Ohio Fuel Supply company shot its well on the Wright farm near Brandon, Tuesday. The flow of gas was greatly increased.

The thirteenth well on the Jacob Bell farm, drilled in last week, was a strong three million. The fourteenth is being located now.

The gas well on the Delano farm at Mt. Vernon, drilled in by the Mohican Oil and Gas company is increasing and the well will reach a capacity of eight million cubic feet per day. Three inch tubing has been placed in the well.

The city of Lancaster has struck another big gas well on the Pleasantville field, and it promises to eclipse all the other gushers drilled on the city's territory in that locality for some time. The new well is located on the Daubenmier lot inside the corporate limits of the village, where the city struck a good well some time ago. At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon they were still drilling and the well showed a flow of about six million feet.

The stockholders of the new Zanesville Oil and Gas Supply company which has holdings in Noble county, that it expects to develop for oil and gas, has organized as follows: President, C. H. Jones; vice president and general manager, J. W. Kropp; secretary and treasurer, C. P. Worrell. The other members of the board of directors are S. H. John and W. E. Helmick. The company has made arrangements with Bolen & Higgins, experienced drillers of Utica, to put down the first test well, work upon which will be started March 20.

The Horn well of the Ohio Fuel Supply in Clay township, Knox county, has been completed, and it is rated at two millions.

Fishing is still in progress at the Love oil well of the Anknetown company. The well is still producing oil.

A boiler explosion at an oil well pump station near Woodsfield, Monroe county, last Thursday, killed Edward Douglass and Frank Madison.

The D. A. Upham company completed a well a few days ago on the H. C. Swetland 45 acres in Clinton township. It showed up for two and a half millions.

Manager P. J. Higgins, Assistant Superintendent Alpheus Snook, and Foreman Frank Ackerman of the Logan company have since been made by which it is probable Mr. Higgins and Mr. Snook will withdraw their resignations.

The Logan company last week leased seven school house lots in Granville township at $50 per year each. There are two districts in which the lots can not be leased, as if used for other than school purposes the land reverts to the former owners. The Logan has but little territory in Granville township, compared with that held by all the other big companies.

The Star Oil and Gas company has brought suit to have cancelled a contract it made to furnish gas to the Smithport-Camp glass factory in Mt. Vernon at a rate of 4 1-2 cents per thousand. Its petition asserts that the price is inadequate and unreasonable, and that to carry out the contract would result in insolvency of the gas company. It is further alleged that the contract was made by former directors of the Star company; that some of said former directors are interested in the Knox County Oil and Gas company which by some arrangement not definitely known to affiants, receives 2 1-2 cents per thousand on all gas sold by the Star company to said glass factory.

PRINTS MONTHLY MAGAZINE FOR THE BLIND.

New York, March 16—Mrs. Wm. Ziegler's monthly magazine, published in the interest of the blind, made its first appearance on Tuesday. Through the generosity of Mrs. Ziegler the sightless folk now have a publication of their own and which is devoted solely to their interest and welfare. The publication is printed in the raised point system, the work being done by sightless printers at the American Printing House of the Blind, in the State Asylum in Louisville, Ky. A nominal subscription of ten cents a year is charged. The first issue of the magazine is seven thousand copies.

Among the contents of the first number are letters from President Roosevelt, Grover Cleveland and Helen Keller. In her letter Miss Keller, on behalf of the blind, thanks

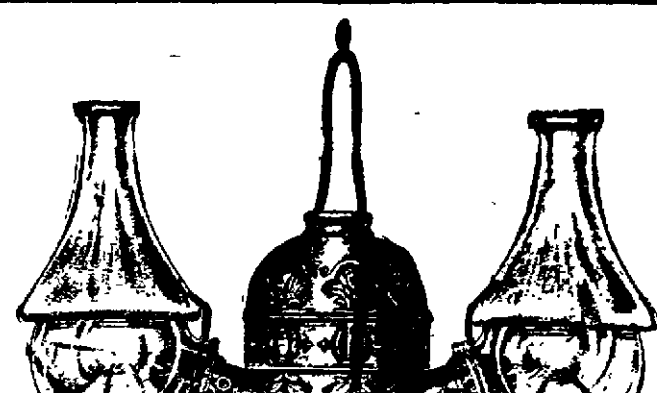

Mrs. Ziegler for the work for which the sightless have waited years. There is a history of the Zeigler polar expedition, a physical culture department, a comic department, containing humorous paragraphs from the newspapers, and some pages of articles on current events. In illustrations the magazine publishes a map of the West Indies and the national emblem in raised point.

CORRESPONDENCE BUREAU OF FASHIONS CONDUCTED BY ELIZABETH LEE

THE work I shall begin next week in behalf of the women readers of this magazine will be conducted along the lines of a "Consulting Dressmaker's Bureau or Department," and is intended as a practical help to those who do their own sewing, or who wish certain ideas carried out by their dressmakers.

Supposing a woman is desirous of renewing her wardrobe, but is uncertain as to what will become her, will give the better service, or will the more appropriate fill her needs. To her I say:

If you are not quite sure what material, color, design and trimmings you wish to combine in your spring and summer frocks; if you are not certain how to bring out your best points, how to make yourself chic and smart at the least possible expense, send a detailed description of your personal appearance, complexion, build, style of feature. Then enter into details as to whether you are tall or short, stout or slender. If you know what defect you would like to hide or what point you would like to bring out, mention it. Should you be a woman of preferences, as to a certain color, material, or special touch of ribbon or lace, make that evident also, as it will convey to me, in a measure, the style of my correspondent, whether of the "dainty," severe or neat, trim type. Every letter is most carefully studied, that each writer may have what is especially becoming to her, in order to hide any physical defects and accentuate the good points, some of which every woman has, but frequently does not know how to bring out.

I not only desire to give pointers for early spring wear, but I want to give pointers to those who have on hand when asking suggestions in making over. Frequently, these can be used, thus avoiding any outlay whatever.

Bring out your last summer's hats, tell me their color and shape, and I will give pointers on how to bring them up to the coming summer fashion demands. All questions asked will be given the same consideration, from the trivial matter of perhaps a becoming hair ribbon to advice on an entire wardrobe. In fact, from head to foot, I give artistic, and at the same time, practical dress suggestions.

Again, I keep pace with the fashions, so that any correspondent may rest assured that she is receiving advice in the latest style, which, if not considered entirely becoming to her, is so modified as to suit her needs and appearance without destroying the original lines.

Take the popular princess, for instance. There are few women to whom this style is unbecoming, if built on lines adapted to the largely depend upon the success of the "resurrection," if only correctly applied.

Where there are gowns to be made over for growing children a detailed description of the children and the garments will elicit such advice and direction as will enable prudent, overtaxed mothers to make the coming sewing out of unusual profit and peace of mind. There will be a practical saving of money, too.

Make a raid on the wardrobe, I say, and bring to light the gowns given up as hopeless with their tight sleeves and skimpy skirts. Ask advice, and see the smart, up-to-date frocks that will surely be the result. Also get out the old-fashioned dolmans and wraps, and see them transformed at little trouble and practically no expense into smart little stoles and boleros for early spring wear. Tell me what trimmings or odd pieces you have on hand when asking suggestions in making over. Frequently, these can be used, thus avoiding any outlay whatever.

Take the popular princess, for instance. There are few women to whom this style is unbecoming, if built on lines adapted to the wearer; yet few women dare attempt the model they admire so much, because of the caricatures in evidence of what really is not only a beautiful but a generally becoming garment.

Accessories, too, that give the smart finish to many a gown, cost a small fortune bought ready to wear, yet many women already have small pieces of silk, lace, velvet and chiffons lying by that are precisely the thing for such purposes. Clever fingers, and even those unskilled, can make boas, muffs, ruffs, jabots, collars, fluffy frills and dainty bits of lingerie once the idea is given. All that is necessary will be to send in the size, color and kind of material of the remnants, and valuable suggestions will be offered.

Amateur dressmakers, too, may be largely helped from my fund of information gained not only professionally, but by the hundreds of letters coming to me telling of the difficulties other amateurs have encountered. Does the skirt sag, stand out in the front or fall in at the back? If so, and I am asked, I will tell why this is so, why the sleeve twists, and why the collar refuses to set neatly and close to the neck. These, and a hundred other difficulties beset the home dressmaker, and I stand ready to assist one and all.

I may say that I have studied form and color in technical schools abroad, and am considered to possess unusual taste and cleverness in gowns.

Should you feel inclined to take up my idea it will be necessary for you to enclose samples—which should be pinned to the letters—that I may know what material I am designing. Letters should also be made as brief as possible, and be written on one side of the paper only. They should be signed, but names will not be published.

Address all letters to me, care of this paper.

ELIZABETH LEE.

Wonderful New Oil Lamp

Floods your room with the finest, softest, pleasantest light, yet burns 1-2 to 1-3 less oil than any other. As totally different from all other lamps in results as it is in appearance. Used by many of the most particular people in preference to gas.

Proof positive of how entirely different The Angle Lamp is from all others in the class of people who use it. It is not a kerosene lamp, or a gas lamp, or a tallow lamp, or a candle lamp, or a lamp of any other kind. It is a lamp of a new type, and it is the most elegant and most economical of all lamps.

These people would not think of using ordinary oil lamps, yet they have chosen this oil-burning lamp for lighting their homes and offices in preference to gas, electricity, gasoline, acetylene, or any other method, because they have found that while as to operate, its light is more brilliant than either, and of the beautiful, soft, restful quality for which kerosene is so justly famous.

But you need not take even this evidence of the superiority of The Angle Lamp. For the very fact that The Angle Lamp always surprises and delights even the most particular people enables us to offer you better proof yet—A THIRTY DAY'S TRIAL of any lamp listed in Catalogue '48' in your own home, where you yourself can prove that it is the best, the cheapest, and the most satisfactory of all lighting methods. Lighted and extinguished like gas. Filled while lighted with perfect safety. Requires filling but once or twice a week. Burned high or low without odor.

No Smoke No Danger

Just one thing more—Economy. Its splendid light and convenience were the only features of The Angle Lamp that might be considered a luxury. But, as the lamp actually costs less to burn than even the troublesome, old-fashioned kind, it must be considered an actual necessity. Write for Catalogue '48' listing 22 varieties from $1.50 up.

GIRLS AND BOYS

RAVEN BOY AND THE MOON

AN ALASKAN INDIAN STORY.

AFTER Raven Boy had tried to steal Beaver's lake and had done many other annoying things, he started off on his travels, looking for more mischief. On the shore of the inlet he saw the smoke of Hometown, and, flying over there as a raven, he changed himself into a small boy, and knocked at the door of the chief's house.

The chief and his wife had no children of their own, so they took Raven Boy in and adopted him as their son. He pretended not to know where he came from. In a few days the chief's wife said to him: "Why do you sit around doing nothing all day? Here, take these arrows and this bow, and go out and hunt."

That night Raven Boy came back without having shot anything, but he said to the chief: "I have invited a few of my friends to come and feast with us to-morrow."

The chief had stores of food and so was not angry, but said: "Next time when you invite your friends please let us know about

"Ho, ho," laughed the Shaman. "Your adopted son is Raven Boy, the mischief maker. Take this box with you and do as I tell you, and you will see."

When Raven Boy came home that night the chief said to him: "Would you like the moon to play with?"

"Oh, yes," replied Raven Boy. "I have always wanted the moon."

The chief opened the outer box and took from it another smaller box. This too he opened and took out a still smaller one, and so on until he had taken out five boxes.

"Now look sharp," he said, and opening the fifth box he took out a round shining object and held it up before Raven Boy.

Now Ravens cannot resist seeing anything which is round and glittering, and no sooner had the boy seen the shining thing the chief held up, than he changed into a raven, and, seizing the object in his beak, flew away, up through the smoke-hole, and out of the house.

Raven Boy flew so hard that before he knew it he was away up in the sky. Then, being angry to think he had been betrayed by the shining object, he snapped it to pieces with his bill and flung the pieces about the sky.

"There," said he, "future people will see you in this condition." And that is the reason, the Alaska Indians say, that sometimes we see only a little piece of the moon.

But once every month the moon gets all its pieces together and becomes a great, round, shining object, just as it looked when Raven Boy flew away with it from the house of the chief of Hometown.

HOW GRITTY GOT HIS FREEDOM

By NOBLE IVES.

GRITTY wagged his long bushy tail and waved his paw in a conciliatory manner. The small boy at the other end of his chain gave it a jerk, and Gritty cowered as if expecting a blow.

"Well, boy, what did your father say he would take for the dog?"

"Six dollars, sir. Here, you cur, stop that!" The boy rapped the dog sharply on the head. "If he don't mind, sir, you jest cuff him."

"I'll take him. Here, boy, here's your money, and be off."

"I took the chain and down went Gritty in the dust."

"Well, young fellow, you belong to me now. How do you think you will like the change?"

Gritty looked up out of his deep brown eyes and thumped his tail on the ground till the dust rose in clouds. He was still prostrate. I took his nose in my hand.

"Nobody's going to beat you, Gritty. Get up and come to me."

I took a seat in a veranda chair, and he came slowly, head to earth, and still distrustful.

"Gritty," I said, as I sat on the floor beside him, "listen to me. You are my dog now, and you must learn not to be afraid of me. Next you must learn to love me, and after that no more chains. Because then you'll stay with me, and not want to go off and leave me. Look me in the eye now."

Gritty lifted his head and took one look out of his honest, fearless eyes. Then he rose and with slow waving tail placed his forepaws on my shoulders and ran out a long delicate tongue, which I had to dodge diligently. Then he dropped again, as if ashamed of so much demonstration.

So we were friends, and his trust grew like a mushroom. Soon he ceased to cower at my approach, and instead I would be greeted by a joyful bark and a leap and a tug at the chain, while my departure from his side brought forth a howl of sorrow.

At night he was chained in the barn, where he made night hideous with his puppy wails, for he was only a baby, and it was loneliness. The third night I loosened the chain and let him run on the floor, thinking he would be quieter. Until 11 o'clock he cried as usual. Then I went out and sternly rapped on the floor. After that I heard no more. In the welcome silence I went to bed and to sleep.

My room opened onto the veranda through a French door. About midnight I was awakened by a soft thump outside the door. I lifted my head and looked out, but saw nothing, so fell asleep again. An hour later I awoke again to hear the same noise. I called softly:

"Who's there?"

A series of thumps gave answer. They had a familiar sound. I stole to the door and looked out through the screen. There, on the sill, lay Gritty.

"Gritty—very sternly—how did you get out of the barn?"

Gritty rose, looked at me, then dropped his head, shame-stricken.

"Gritty, did you crawl out through the feed hole?"

His tail gave a feeble assent; then he dropped at my feet, as if expecting a whipping.

"You are a bad dog," I said, "a bad dog. But I love you, and, moreover, you did not run away from me when you were loose. You came straight to your own mistress. Therefore I forgive you. Now, because you have learned to trust me, I shall trust you. No more chains so long as you remember that this is your home."

PEEP HOLES OF THE ANGELS

MARSTON and his father were walking home one night. The sky was very black, but every star was radiant.

"Papa," said Marston, "what are the stars?"

"Why, they are supposed to be other worlds, like this, my son," answered his father. "Many of them are much larger than the earth, and some of them are supposed to have people on them, just like this world."

Marston was silent. Seeing his serious face, his father asked: "What did you think they were, my son?"

Marston sighed, then answered: "Why, papa, I always thought the stars were holes in heaven that the angels looked through."

SO WE WERE FRIENDS AND HIS TRUST GREW LIKE A MUSHROOM.

And, Gritty boy, I shall not take you back to the stable to-night. Step in and make yourself at home on the rug."

So Gritty entered into the joys of freedom, and for that night the bliss of companionship. All the rest of the night he lay contented, raising his pointed ears every time I moved. Once he came softly to the bedside and licked my hand, then back to the rug, where he thumped his tail happily.

But from that time my Scotch collie was a different dog. No more abject cowering. A fine and perfect trust grew between us, and he learned to respond to my friendship with an implicit obedience, born not of terror, but of an honest, fearless love. God bless him!

THE BRAVEST DEEDS I EVER KNEW.

of the Federal forces toward the James River was the result. On the afternoon of July 1, 1862, the Army of the Potomac had taken position on the strategic ground of Malvern Hill, a very strong position overlooking the surrounding country.

There were a few undulations, but mostly wide fields of flowing grain and rich green grass, that in places was from ten to fifteen inches in height, presenting one of the most beautiful and picturesque midsummer prospects that could possibly be imagined. The scattered trees of the open forests in full foliage and the green fields interspersed with flowers, would have formed under ordinary circumstances a scene most fascinating to behold.

The artillery was placed in position, and the infantry was drawn up in line of battle along the most commanding crests, preparatory to the final struggle of that remarkable campaign. The Confederate army followed in pursuit of the Union forces after the desperate battle of Glendale, or Nelson's Farms, as it is sometimes called. They had taken positions in the stretches of timber some three miles from Malvern Hill. They did not long allow the Union forces to remain in inactivity.

The first lines that were advanced by brigades, divisions and corps received a terrific fire from the Union batteries on the crests of Malvern Hill, but they still moved on up the slope occupied by the Federal troops. In these advances and assaults the destructive work of our artillery was very evident, and when they reached the infantry line they were hurled back with serious loss. In one of the advances made later in the afternoon was a Confederate regiment led by a bold young colonel, who moved forward over the plain with his command with great spirit.

After they had debouched from the timber, the artillery cut wide gaps in the line, but they closed in toward the centre on the colors, and moved forward with splendid martial spirit. As they ascended the slope and came under the scattering fire of the infantry line, their pace slackened, and they seemed to move with a less elastic step, a growing remembrance of hesitation, and gradually moved more slowly and with less impetuosity. Impatient at this apparent caution and trepidation on the part of his command (as a body, not as individuals, for the regiment was under such splendid discipline that not a soldier left the ranks), the gallant young officer dashed forward in front of his men, and turning about while he waved his hat, exclaimed:

"Come on! Come on! Do you want to live forever?"

This was said with the greatest sang froid and the utmost apparent indifference to the hail of minute balls and cannon shot that was falling thick and fast around him. This was a degree of courage that was not only indifferent to danger, but could defy imminent destruction from the engines of war with a buoyant sense of humor; that not only inspired fortitude in his followers, but aroused feelings of admiration in all those who heard him. It was a sample of the very highest type of courage, which is rarely witnessed even among the scenes of death and destruction.

AGAIN THE CHIEF EMPTIED A SACK OF CRANBERRIES INTO THE BOY'S MOUTH.

It a day or two before, so that we may have something nice for them to eat."

"Oh, there will only be a few of them," replied Raven Boy, "and they are not particular. Only let them be plenty of cranberries, for my friends are all fond of cranberries."

Early the next day the people whom Raven Boy had invited began to arrive. Ten canoes came loaded with them across the inlet, and they came from the woods and from the very earth itself, it is said, until there were more people gathered than the chief had ever seen at one time.

Raven Boy had gone to the Beaver people, the Eagle people, the Salmon people, the Killer Whale people, and others on whom he had played tricks and said: "Now let us be good friends again. I am sorry that I played tricks upon you. Come to the chief's house at Hometown. I am his son now, and he is going to give a big feast in my honor."

So all these people changed themselves into human form and came with laughter and dancing.

The chief was angry when he saw what Raven Boy had done, but he not only brought out all his own stores of food, but sent to his own village and all the villages round about to get food.

For three days the people feasted, and then went away rejoicing. When the chief looked over his stores after they had gone, he said: "Well, I don't know what we shall do for food now. There are only cranberries left. I thought you said your friends were fond of cranberries?"

"Well," replied Raven Boy, "I thought they were. At any rate I am, and I am very hungry. Give me some."

I am, and I am very hungry. Give me some."

Raven Boy opened his mouth wide and the chief, taking up a sack of cranberries, emptied it down his throat.

"There," said the chief, "have you enough, now?"

"Oh, no," said Raven Boy, "I am starving. Give me some more."

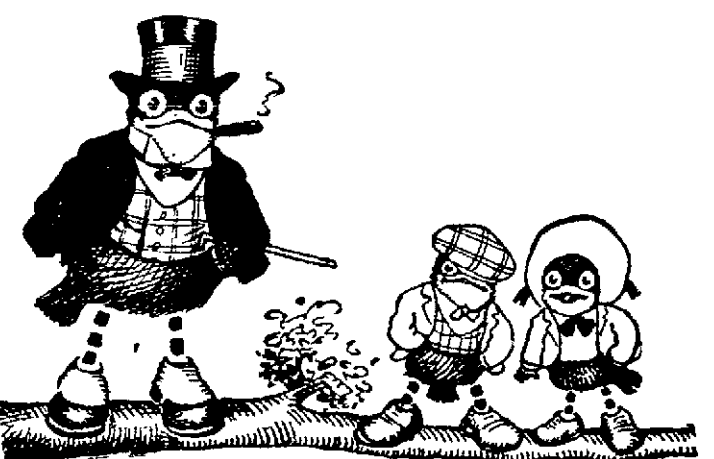

Again the chief emptied a sack of cranberries into the boy's mouth, and again he cried and said he was hungry. And this went on until every cranberry in the house had disappeared.

Early the next day the chief and his wife went out to fish for flounders, because there was not a thing in the house to eat. As soon as they began fishing the boy changed himself into a raven, and dived into the water. Every time the chief and his wife threw their line out Raven Boy snatched from their hooks the salmon-roe which they used for bait. He tried the trick once too often, for in trying to take the bait from the chief's hook the hook caught in Raven Boy's beak and pulled it off.

Raven Boy at once flew out of the water, and off to the woods, where he found a screech owl. Pulling off the screech owl's bill, Raven Boy stuck it on in the place of his own, and gave the owl for a beak a misshapen object which he picked up from the ground. That is the reason screech owls have such ugly beaks. Before Raven Boy stole screech owl's beak they had beaks as handsome as the ravens have.

While Raven Boy was away getting a new beak the chief and his wife caught a good mess of fish. They were on their way home, when they met a Shaman—a very wise man and magician—who said to them: "Do you know who it is that is making all the trouble for you?"

"Why, yes," replied the chief. "It is my adopted son. But he will improve as he grows up."

MR. KINGBIRD'S IDEA.

Said Mr. Chickadee, "This smoke is very good, indeed."

"It seems to me," the Kingbird cried,

"It smells more like chick-wood!"

WALKING AND VISITING
TOILETTES

CLOTH COATS WITH VELVET
AND FUR TRIMMINGS

Rid is par excellence a maiden color this season, and some charming walking frocks are seen in it. One in a deep copper tone showed collars and cuffs of black astrakhan, a white hat with white plumes going with this.

Brown serge, plainly made up, is likewise very smart material, but the simplicity of the gown is often made up for by accessories. With a trim little brown cloth frock seen went a white fox set, a white hat with plumes and patent leather boots with white cloth uppers.

A charming frock worn by a slim maid of eighteen or perhaps less was a heavy English cloth in blue and green Scotch plaids. With this went a big fur set of Japanese fox, whose iron gray set off the gown most handsomely. The hat was of gray-white felt with a sprawling bow covering the crown of pale blue satin ribbon, and a fancy blue feather curling over at the back.

For dressy wear, satin cloth in pale colors is a material much employed, as well as velvet and a mixture of velvet and silk. These toilettes are very elegant as to detail, though models are often comparatively simple, and, of course, accessories must be flawless to strike the true modish note.

Most often the maiden gown in plain cloth has only stitching for ornament, it may carry the elaborate pleatings of the skirt and the dainty laces, embroideries and wide belts which begay the bodice.

But sometimes there are bias bands put on in ornamental ways, or bands of velvet or silk, and with a fur-trimmed skirt may go a little jacket all in the same pelt.

With gowns in white, pale blue, gray and old rose, ermine or white astrakhan or caracal will be used effectively. Soutache braids in the gown color may likewise edge the fur trimmings and ornament the jacket somehow, but there is no more lovely combination even for the youngest girl than white and black.

As example of this a dress worn by a girl of perhaps sixteen was of white cloth with a skirt band and short loose jacket of white caracal. A black silk frogging and black gimps interspersed with little animal heads made the jacket of this smart; the gimps also edging the fur band of the full pleated skirt.

The headpiece for this dress was a tiny box turban of caracal with a high black paint brush and animal head at the left. Large felt hats, with the brim slightly undulated, and massed with loops of glistening ribbon, supply, in pale colors, very dressy and yet simple headgear.

The maidenly evening frock is generally designed with an eye to practicability, for, of course, there is rarely more than one strictly evening frock. Such soft or girlish textures as respond to shirring, tucks and frills are much used; liberty silk, messaline, silk muslin and chiffon are prominent among these, the gowns being in white or the faintest tints, and showing no fussiness whatever. Some degree of décolletage is used for the bodice, and puff sleeves vary in length till the elbow is reached. Skirts never train, even when a girl has reached the age of twenty, but fall short of slipper tops or else barely touch the floor. A round sweep, which is sometimes facilitated by a light featherbone wire at the skirt hem, effects the look desired.

As the light wrap is necessarily a luxury, only those who can afford the expenditure have them elaborately made or in rich fabrics. A very ordinary quality of cloth is often used, but the pale colors of these and the chiffon or silk or velvet trimmings which begay them all contribute to an elegant air.

White cloth with puffings of the same will realize stylishly if the coat is well made and lined with silk. White cleans far better than color and even the grades of cloth at a dollar a yard may with care turn out a very dashing garment.

A useful model for the evening coat is a long sacque with a bias back seam and slightly fitted sides. The neck of this is cut in a slight V, the puff trimming, which runs down the sides edging it. At the skirt the coat is very wide and trimmed with two or more rows of the puffing, while the sleeves may be in the shape of short capes, or else in three-quarter puff form.

With the cape sleeves, which are scarcely more than shaped flounces, put in full, there are undersleeves of lace, chiffon or net.

Silk coats made in this way, with lace, chiffon or net for the puffings, are very handsome.

A long walking coat must be faultless in line, and since fur is so fashionable it must either be fur trimmed or set off with a smart set. A number of the three-quarter coats, the best models of which hang with a sack looseness, show deep collars and cuffs in skins of a fairly inexpensive nature.

Beaver is one of these, such a skin showing perhaps upon a shaggy wool, while a long haired fur, like fox, skunk or lynx will be used upon a smooth cloth. The velvet and braid-trimmed coats are usually in more fitted styles, for frequently the fur-trimmed coat is fur lined, a doubling of lock-squirrel, which is quite inexpensive, going with any skin outside.

Long haired felts in large flat shapes and brilliant reds, with elaborate trimmings of ribbon are some headpieces frequently observed. Ostrich plumes are enormously employed for chapeaux with richer gowns, but for the ordinary headpiece ribbon, velvet, and wings are favorite garnitures.

In the line of maiden jewelry, some short neck chains in old-fashioned link designs are pretty for evening wear, and the newest pendant for these is a small topaz heart set in a narrow gold rim. This modest ornament, or some other equally simple, and perhaps a bangle bracelet, is all the party jewelry allowed a well brought up girl.
